BIRMINGHAM SUES SOMERS FOR $20,000

Cleveland, July 10.—Joe Birmingham former manager of the Cleveland American League baseball team, today filed suit for $20,000 in common pleas court here against

Chas. W. Somers, owner of the team, to recover salary and damages alleged to be due him.

Somers terminated his contract, discharged him as manager and released him as a member of the team.

Birmingham's petition says his contract was for the seasons of 1914, 1915 and 1916 at $6,000 a year, with $1,500 additional as an option.

The suit is expected to be a test of the so-called "iron-clad" contracts which displaced the ten day clause after certain court decisions held the latter invalid following the coming into the major league field of the Federal League and consequent raids on clubs of organized ball and jumping of several star players.

GERMAN PAPER SAYS ANSWER WILL SATISFY

Berlin, July 12.—(Via London) —Commenting on the German reply of July 8 to the American note dated June 9, relative to Germany's submarine warfare and its effect on American interests the Morgenpost today said:

"The answer in every way is worthy of Germany. It shows the claim of a good conscience, a willingness to lessen the fearfulness of war as far as possible and an upright wish to live in peace with America. But it also expresses a firm will not to abate one jot or tittle of Germany's rights. The answer clearly shows that the responsibility for the submarine warfare rests on Great Britain."

Morgenpost quotes the American note where it declares that the government of the United States "cannot admit that the proclamation of a war zone from which neutral ships have been

"This was a point on which American and German conceptions were opposed to each other and it must be pointed out that this difference of opinion also is not compromised by the new German note, but that rather it still exists in its essential features."

The Morgenpost also says: "Feeling in the United States is changed from what it was at the time of the Lusitania sinking and President Wilson will have to satisfy this feeling in considering and answering the present note. That the note will meet unrestrained approval at the hands of a large part of Americans is certain."

CARTRIDGE, ADDRESSED TO WHITE HOUSE FOUND

Baltimore, July 10.—A small paper wrapped and cotton padded package was found by a policeman under the Pennsylvania Railway bridge at Paterson Park Avenue and Eager street today. In the wrapper was written "White House, Washington, Explosive."

Upon examination it proved to be a cartridge about six inches long, apparently of the kind used in machine guns, and about the cartridges was wrapped a fine filament of copper wire. The police believe it to be the work of a crank.

UNIDENTIFIED WRECK SEEN IN WHITE SEA

New York, July 10.—Officers and passengers on the Russian steamship Czar that arrived here today from Archangel, said they had sighted in the Baffin Sea on June 15, when within a day's run of Archangel, a wrecked steamship floating bottom up, surrounded by a mass of wreckage and cargo. The Czar steamed round the wreck several times searching for survivors, but none was found. The identity of the ship

Maritime records do not contain the name of any ship bearing a name similar to the letters of the wreck seen in the White Sea. The British steamship Twilight was last reported at Rye, England, on June 11.

DETECTIVES SEARCH FOR RACE HORSE

Cincinnati, O., July 10—Detectives employed by George Arvin, owner of the race horse Gabrio, today were searching the country in an effort to trace the thoroughbred. The horse, which escaped from the wreck at Terrace Park Wednesday night, disappeared shortly after it had been turned over to a negro by one of the railroad men.

Last summer Gabrio, who was discovered while doing duty as a plow-horse in Michigan, won a sensational race at Latonia. Gabrio was in a stall between two other race-horses on the wrecked train. The other animals were killed instantly, but so far as known, Gabrio escaped without a scratch.

was not determined, the name on her stern having been partly obliterated with only the letters U M L O and beneath them the letters O N D O showing. The latter were thought to have been part of the name of the hailing port, London. The bows of the ship were smashed in, evidently by a mine or torpedo.

Maritime records do not contain the name of any ship bearing a name similar to the letters of the wreck seen in the White Sea. The British steamship Twilight was last reported at Rlythe, England, on June 11.

Leading American Papers Denounce German Reply

The German reply to President Wilson's second note was editorially commented upon today throughout the United States. Excerpts from some of the leading newspapers are: New York Globe—Germany's reply to the second Lusitania note is as unsatisfactory as her reply to the first. There is evasion of the single issue as to whether Germany intends to violate international law when the violation means the death of American citizens. The failure of Germany, although twice interrupted, to make a definite disclaimer of such purposes, is most disconcerting to all who have labored	to preserve unimpaired the historic good relations between Germany and the United States. New York Evening Sun—The German reply to President Wilson's remonstrances against the abomination of submarine raiding as practiced by the Kaiser's navy, would be a climax of impudence if it were not a marvel of fatuity. New York Herald—Stripped of its cant about "humanity." * * * of its prating about "Germany's previous contentions in behalf of abhorrence of the right of capture"	* * * of its tirade against Great Britain and its altogether specious references to the Lusitania. The German answer to the United States is one of defiance. Boston Transcript—Without equivocation and a politeness offensive by insulting, Germany rejects each and all of our demands and attempts to bargain with respect to the future. * * * What right have we to retain a seat among self-respecting nations of the world if we abandon our dead to their fate. (Continued on Page Eight)

TEXT OF GERMAN REPLY

The complete text of the German reply follows:

"The undersigned has the honor to make the following reply to His Excellency, Ambassador Gerard, in the note of the 14th ultimo re, the impairment of American interests by German submarine war. The Imperial government learned with satisfaction from the note how earnestly the government of the United States is concerned in seeing the principles of humanity realized in the present war. Also this appeal finds ready echo in Germany and the Imperial government is quite willing to permit its statements and decisions in the present war to be governed by the principles of humanity just as it has done always.

The Imperial government welcomed with gratitude when the American government in the note of May 15 itself recalled that Germany had always permitted itself to be governed by the principles of progress and humanity in dealing with the law of maritime war. Since the time when Frederick The Great negotiated with John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson the treaty of friendship and commerce of September 3, 1785, between Prussia and the republic of the First German and American statesmen have, in fact, always stood together in the struggle for the freedom of the seas and for the protection of peaceable trade. In the international proceedings which since have been conducted for the regulation of the laws of maritime war Germany and America have both advocated progressive principles, especially the abolition of the right of capture at sea and the protection of the interests of neutrals.

WOULD RATIFY DECLARATION

Even at the beginning of the present war the German Government immediately declared its willingness, in response to proposals of the American government, to ratify the Declaration of London, and thereby subject itself in the use of its naval forces to all the restrictions provided therein in favor of neutrals. Germany likewise has been always tenacious of the principle that war should be conducted against the armed and organized forces of an enemy country, but that the enemy civilian population must be spared as far as possible for the measures of war. The Imperial government cherishes the defini-nile hope that some way will be found when peace is concluded, or perhaps earlier, to regulate the law of maritime war in a manner guaranteeing the freedom of the seas, and will welcome it with gratitude and satisfaction if it can work hand in hand with the American government on that occasion.

"If in the present war the principles which should be the ideal of the future have been traversed more and more, the longer its duration the German government has no guilt therein. It is known to the American government how Germany's adversaries, by completely paralyzing peaceable traffic between Germany and neutral countries, have aimed from the very beginning, and with increasing lack of consideration, at the destruction, not so much of the armed forces as the life of the German nation, repudiating in doing so all the rules of international law and disregarding all rights of neutrals.

"On November 3, 1914, England declared the North Sea a war sea, and by planting poorly anchored mines and by the stoppage and capture of vessels made passage extremely dangerous and difficult for neutral shipping, so by actual blocking neutral coasts and ports, contrary to all international law, long before the beginning of the submarine war, England practically completely intercepted legitimate neutral navigation to Germany also. Thus Germany was driven to a submarine war on trade.

LAYS BLAME ON ENGLAND

"On November 14, 1914, the English Premier declared in the House of Commons that it was one of England's principal tasks to prevent food for the German population from reaching Germany via neutral ports. Since March 1 England has been taking from neutral ships, without further formality, all merchandise proceeding to Germany, as well as all merchandise coming from Germany, even when neutral property. Just as it was also with the Boers, the German people is now to be given the choice of perishing from starvation, with its women and children, or of relinquishing its independence.

"While our enemies thus loudly and openly proclaimed war without mercy until our utter destruction, we were conducting a war of self-defense for our national existence and

CHILLICOTHE MAY DROP OUT OF THE LEAGUE; TWO OTHER CITIES ARE BIDDERS

Officials and club owners of the cities that form the Ohio State league will meet Sunday at the Havlin hotel, Cincinnati. President Joe Carr telegraphed officials today.

Chillicothe has practically surrendered its franchise and two other cities are bidding for it and players. "Chillicothe may pull out, but the withdrawal of the Babes will not affect the league," President Gableman stated Saturday. "All the other teams in the league are in good shape and there is no question about the league going through until Labor Day. The Booster Day planned for this city will put our team over in good shape," Mr. Gableman declared.

President Carr was in Chillicothe today and it seems sure the Babes are practically through. Manager Devore will not continue the club unless he is given financial backing from the Chamber of Commerce and this organization, it is stated, will not get behind the club.

GREATEST WAR LOAN IN HISTORY CLOSES

London, July 10—Subscriptions ranging from 100 pounds upwards to the greatest war loan in the history of the world closes automatically at the Bank of England at one o'clock today except for applications posted up to midnight. Government authorities adhere strictly to the iron rule to refuse information regarding the amount applied for, but in the opinion of the city response must have been gratifying.

Very large subscriptions are known to have been received from insurance companies, banks and commercial houses in the colonies as well as in Great Britain. Stock brokers and suburban and provincial bankers have reported an increasing number of applications in the last few days so that the total amount of new money subscribed is estimated at $3,000,000,000 which with the conversion of consols and the old war loan, is expected to bring the aggregate amount asked. Therefore between $4,500,000,000 and $5,000,000,000 will have been lent to the government in the course of three weeks.

Post offices all over the country will continue to sell small amounts up to $25 to swell this total.

SI STRAUS LEAVES THE SALVAGE; TO STAY HERE

Harry Denton In Charge Of Store

It was announced Saturday that Si Straus, who has been president of the Goodman-Straus Company operating the Salvage store on Chillicothe street, and a similar store in Hamilton, O., had tendered his resignation to his firm and it had been accepted. Mr. Straus said that he was no longer connected with the firm, but coupled with it the pleasing news that he will remain in mercantile field here and would be back in business, possibly within a very few days. The changes have been under way some time but Mr. Straus did not wish them made public until his plans had matured.

Following the arrival of Alex Meis of Cincinnati at the Saturday it was given out that Harry Denton, head clerk in the Salvage store, would be placed in charge and would serve his employers as assistant manager. Mr. Meis expects to visit the city frequently and devote much of his time to the Salvage store, which has for the past few years been one of the leading retail stores of the city.

Mr. Meis said that the business would be carried on in the future as in the past and that Mr. Denton and a capable clerical force would be on hand to extend every courtesy to Salvage patrons. Mr. Meis is at the head of the North College Hill Realty Co., of Cincinnati and has other interests in the Queen City.

Mr. Straus, who is one of the city's staunchest boosters took charge of the Salvage store when it was opened in 1903. Always willing and anxious to do any thing that would reflect in the prosperity or expansion of the city he has been one of the city's most loyal supporters and boosters and it will be welcome news indeed to his legion of friends that he has plans underway that will enable him and Mrs. Straus to continue as highly regarded residents of Portsmouth.

Mr. Straus will open a gent's clothing and furnishing store and will have one of the most attractive stores of the kind in the city when he will open the doors of his new store, which will be on Chillicothe street.

Tilden Skaggs who has been in the workhouse and in jail divers times for failure to provide was before Probate Judge Beatty Saturday afternoon on the same old charge. His offense was aggravated by his having stolen groceries that his wife had bought with her earnings over the wash-tub and then having sold them in order to get money to buy booze. Skaggs was impudent and told Judge Beatty to "give him all the statoots 'lowed and be damned to him." He got it—$100 and six months in the workhouse.

An Evening In Wireless
"Wireless telegraphy" was the subject of the evening's program of the Bigelow Troop last night with the biggest attendance yet held by this progressive young troop. After organizing two new members, Gilbert Lakeman, and Clarence Dunlap, a fine drama was staged; the subject being

"Resolved: That the Morse Telegraph was a greater invention than the Wireless telegraph."

Charles Baker spoke for the affirmative side with Homer Church on the negative. The judges decided in favor of the negative side. Fay Clevenger read an extremely interesting an instructive story written by Mr. Morse Lloyd published in one of the last winter's magazines. Mr. Morse Lloyd closed the evening program with a highly instructive address on wireless telegraphy, also demonstrating the work. Arrangements were made for the summer camp which will be held August 16 to 21 at Carter Caves down in Kentucky.

Evening of Fun and Frolic
An evening of fun and frolic will be held by the East End boy scouts Monday evening at the Manly M. church. A big surprise is in store for all boys who attend. The first part of the fun will be unceremoniously at 7:30 o'clock. You can't afford to miss it boys.

The next feature was a test in high jumping, the honors falling to Scout Don Meixner. Carl Walker starred in the "foot raising" stunt, with Don Blair running a close second. "Fun" Hoser and Donald Meixner entered the ring for a dog fight. After much haw-hawing Meixner gets a neck hold and it's all off with Hoser. Nat Oed.

The next thing on the program was the discussion of the summer camp for this summer and Scoutmaster Williams appointed a committee of 3 on arrangements. They were Howard Lowe, William Monro and Homer Smith.

Mr. C. W. Blomour closed the program of the evening with a short talk on the importance of story telling and urged the boys to be prepared with a fine bunch of stories for the coming camp.

The fun making part of the program for next week will be a candle-eating contest, cracker-eating contest, and a rooster fight.

CHICAGO STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

Chicago, July 10.—The strike of 16,000 carpenters, which for two months, practically has paralyzed the building industry in Chicago, is over.

Settlement on all points at issue was reached early today after committees representing the carpenters, building construction association and building material interests had been locked in conference since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The carpenters were ordered to work at once.

The agreement reached provides that the men shall receive 70 cents an hour, and that they accept what is called "uniform agreement," which will prevent strikes and lock-outs. The agreement is for three years, dating from May 31. It provides for a closed shop and also stipulates that there shall be no restriction regarding the source of building material—whether it is manufactured here or elsewhere.

The settlement was regarded by both sides as a compromise. The carpenters had demanded a sliding wage scale of 70 cents for the first year, 72 1/2 cents for the second and 75 cents for the third. The men, previous to the strike, had been paid 66 cents an hour.

The same plan employed by Mayor William Hale Thompson to settle the recent street car strike—when he locked the opposing factions in his chamber and told them they'd stay there until the strike was settled—was successful in ending the carpenters' strike.

Thomas Carey, president of a brick manufacturing company, locked the conference in after the men had argued for hours without making any headway. He personally guarded the door until a settlement was reached.

May Drop Charges Against Hastings

Columbus, O., July 10.—Statement made by members of the special committee which investigated charges against Superintendent R. L. Hastings, of the Lancaster Boys' Industrial School, before their meeting here today, indicated that they would exonerate Superintendent Hastings of most, or possibly all charges. A few minor recommendations concerning the practical management of the school may be made, it was said. Unless the committee reports finding conditions serious at school which should be changed, the board of administration will probably make no separate inquiry, it was said.

The investigators are R. C. Burton, of Zanesville, John White, of Logan, C. W. Faulkner, of Kenton, and Budget Commissioner E. M. Fullington.

This committee was appointed after charges against Superintendent Hastings had been filed with the governor by Joseph Geer, a discharged employee of the school. He complained that Superintendent Hastings granted favors to employees appointed by him not accorded old employees; permitted many gallons of tomatoes to spoil because they were not properly canned, cut down valuable timber on the school farm, and employed a young girl as matron of a cottage. The committee spent several days at the school hearing testimony of employees and officers.

FIND NINE BOMBS

New York, July 10.—Nine bombs were found aboard the Kirkoswald at Marseilles when the vessel went to discharge its cargo of sugar from New York on her last outward voyage, according to the Kirkoswald's officers who reached here today on the steamer's return trip. None of the bombs exploded, and all were hidden in bags of sugar, the Kirkoswald's officers said. The sugar was taken aboard, they said, at the Fabre line pier in Brooklyn. All the bombs were found while unloading the cargo.

The steamer Kirkoswald, flying the British flag sailed from New York May 2 for Marseilles. This was about the time that the activities of the bomb plotters so far as yet disclosed, reached their height. Of the three other vessels which it was learned recently sailed out of New York with bombs secreted in their cargo, two departed within a few days of the Kirkoswald. These were the Lord Dyrce, sailing April 29 and the Bankdale, while left here May 7.

CALLS DRESSMAKERS TYRANNICAL; ACTRESS MAKES HER OWN CLOTHES

Miss Nancy Winston in one of her home-made dresses.

Nancy Winston is probably the only American actress who designs and makes her own wearing apparel. "I broke away from the tentacles of the dressmakers' trust," said Miss Winston, "when I learned that they were inclined to take advantage of the defenseless actress."

How, and Why,

—the GOODRICH "Fair-List" Propaganda now saves Car-Owners, yearly, over $25,000,000 on Tires

THERE are 1,923,951 Automobiles now State-licensed, and running, in the United States. Of these, 1,803,951 are Pleasure Cars—i.e., exclusive of Trucks, etc.

More than 90% of them, or about 1,623,555, use Pneumatic Tires.

Each car will wear out and replace, on average, about one Set of Four Tires per year.

Therefore, the interests of each Car-Owner as well as each Car-Manufacturer, each Car-Dealer, and Salesman, is vitally and personally affected by the price of Tires to Consumers.

Because—Tires and Gasoline are the two big items of consumption in the operation of Motor Cars.

The Owner who used his Car 1,000 Miles less per year, than he would have done, because of "the high-price of Tires and Gasoline," received that much less return from his entire investment in the Car proper.

The potential, or prospective, Car-Owner who fails to buy a Car because of "the high cost of Tires and Gasoline,"—he who sells his Car and does not buy again because of "the high cost of Tires and Gasoline"—or he who, for the same reason, stores his Car and does not run it during a considerable part of the year, is a direct loss to 1st—Automobile Manufacturers, as a class.

2d—Automobile Dealers, as a class.

3d—Garage Owners, as a class.

4th—Lubrication & Gasoline Manufacturers, as a class.

But,—he is a greater loss to TIRE Manufacturers, and Dealers, as a class, than to any others.

Because—

—Gasoline and Lubricants, for instance, can be sold to the Owners of Motor Boats, Stationary, and other Motors.

But,—Automobile Tires can only be sold, in the ultimate, to the man who OWNS a Car, and who wears out Tires through using it.

• • • • •

EVERY mile that each Automobile runs, means an automatic Sale of Tires to replace that mileage with new Tires.

But, all the Salesmanship, and all the Advertising, under the Sun, could not increase, by a single Tire, the total sales of Tires beyond the number of Cars owned by Consumers, and the number of Miles each Consumer runs his Car yearly.

The Market for Tires is therefore limited inflexibly, to the number of Cars running, and the Mileage which each Owner is induced to run yearly.

Therefore, we opine that to promote greater Sales, and greater use, of Automobiles, few better incentives can be offered than markedly-lowered cost, TO CONSUMERS, for Tires and Gasoline.

Just as we recognize that the only legitimate expansion open to the Tire Industry, as a whole, would be due to the Sale of more Automobiles, each year to Consumers, with a greater average Mileage USE, per year, of each Car by each Owner.

That is why we favor the lowest possible price for Tires,—to Consumers, consistent with maintenance of high quality and a fair profit to Dealer and Mfr.

So this, then, is a leading reason why WE initiated, and propagated, that Goodrich "Fair-List" Movement which we publicly announced in the press on Jan. 31, 1915, and which caused practically every Pneumatic Tire Manufacturer in this Country to follow our lead and bring his prices down to a fairer level.

• • • • •

THIS is also the reason why some Tire Manufacturers, who could not, or would not, "meet" our BASIC prices for Pneumatic Tires (even though our "Fair-List" Propaganda obliged them to make heavy reductions off their former Lists) might erroneously suppose that "Goodrich" Tires have been cheapened in Quality, as well as in price.

Hence this explanation (to the Public, to Car-Manufacturers, Dealers, Car-Salesmen, Garages, and Tire Dealers generally) that we deem it "good business" to sell the best Goodrich Tires (of fabric construction) we have ever made, at the fairest price possible for such quality.

Hence, too, the following TEST offer to Consumers.

We will cheerfully pay for any Goodrich Safety "Non-Skid" Tire, sold since our "Fair-List" price-reduction (announced on January 31, 1915), which when cut open shows any reduction in quality, in number of layers of Canvas, in thickness, or quality of Rubber, when compared with any other Goodrich Safety "Non-Skid" made by us, and sold at our higher prices current before the Goodrich "Fair-List" Movement.

And,—this is further to authorize any Tire-User to extend this Offer (at our expense) to any Tire Dealer, or Manufacturer.

We ask Car-Owners, and Tire Consumers, in their own interest, to see that no "implication" of lowered quality in Goodrich Tires goes unchallenged—just as we have protected their interests, for our own sake, through our "Fair-List" Propaganda.

• • • • •

BECAUSE of that GOODRICH "Fair-List" Propaganda, every Car-Owner who now buys any make of Tire sized 37 x 5, now saves on each set of 4 Tires, an average of about $46.27.

—Every Car-Owner who uses 34 x 4 Tires, of any make, now saves, through the Goodrich "Fair-List" Propaganda an average of about $26.15 per Set of 4 Tires.

Made as always—

—The same reliable Construction.

—The same dependable Service.

—Nothing whatever taken out of materials or Quality, no matter what reductions in List-Price are ever made.

—Every Car-Owner who uses 30 x 3 3/4 Tires, now saves, through the Goodrich "Fair-List" Propaganda, an average of about $14.70 per Set of 4 Tires.

Other sizes in proportion.

The 1,623,555 State-licensed Car-Owners who use Pneumatic Tires now save about 20% of what they last year paid for ANY make and size, whether they be Goodrich or competing brands,—equal to more than $25,000,000 per year.

And, don't forget that this giant saving to Car-Owners was never mentioned to the Public by other Tire Manufacturing Concerns until the Goodrich "Fair-List" Propaganda made it imperative that they extend the Saving to Consumers on their Tires, or lose business to the Goodrich Co.

But, notwithstanding all this,—the fact which should loom largest to TIRE-USERS is the contrast of 10% to 40%, in prices, that still exists between the low price of the best Non-Skid Tires (of fabric construction) that money can buy, or the largest Rubber Factory in the World produce,—(to wit, GOODRICH Non-Skid Tires) and all other "responsible" Tires in the field.

Compare prices and see!

Then, if you are not already a Goodrich User, do yourself (and us), the justice to buy at least one GOODRICH "Non-Skid" Tire.

Test that out for Quality, Mileage and Resilience against any other Tire, at any price, which you are now using.

The result of such Test will cause you to wonder why you ever paid more for Maximum Quality, Mileage, and Resilience than the Basic price of Goodrich Non-Skid Tires?

BANDITS ROB FAST TRAIN IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., July 10.—Posses of railroad men and detectives were early today scouring around Greenville, Alabama, 60 miles south of here, in search of four bandits, who near that place, shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, held up and robbed Louisville and Nashville fast train No. 37, bound from New York for New Orleans. No word of success of the chase has been received here at an early hour.

The bandits, after forcing the engine crew to abandon their engine, cut loose the mail, baggage and express cars, ran them a short distance down the track, turned a full head of steam on the engine and started it southward with no one in the cab and then looted the cars. The value of the loot obtained has not been ascertained. The passengers were not molested.

Conductor Phil McRea, of Montgomery, at first was reported to have been killed by the bandits. Later it was stated he was found dead sitting on the steps of the observation car of his train and no wound could be found on his body. It was said the bandits fired one shot, but that it went wild.

The bandits boarded the train at Greenville, according to reports from passengers. Two of the men boarded the rear end of the baggage car and the others the tender of the engine. When the train pulled out of Greenville the men climbed over the tender into the engine and forced the engine to stop. The crew was ordered out of the cab and the bandits cut loose the three front cars. After running the cars a short distance down the track the bandits cut loose the engine and started it on its wild run. The engine came to a halt near Garland, Alabama, from lack of steam, after running about forty miles.

Chief Mail Clerk Weatherly, who remained in his car, was held up at the point of a pistol and bound and gagged.

First news of the robbery came to railroad officials here. A special train with railroad officials and officers started for the scene at once.

The chief mail clerk said today a package of currency consigned to Houston, Texas, was secured by the robbers. The amount was not disclosed. Officials in charge of the investigation declare the robbery was carefully planned and that the robbers escaped in a waiting automobile.

Says James Boys Compelled Him To Bury Bodies

Fresno, Cal., July 10.—The Missouri cattleman and his son who were murdered at Siam, Iowa, in 1868 were slain by a gang of which Frank and Jesse James were the leaders according to C. P. Huntsman, a Fresno real estate man, nephew of Bates Huntsman, now under arrest and Bedford, Iowa, in connection with the murder. Huntsman said today he would leave for Bedford immediately to assist in the defense of his uncle.

Huntsman's father, Dr. C. R. Huntsman, and Bates Huntsman, did bury the bodies and the $90,000 belonging to the cattleman, but did so at the order of the James boys, the Fresno man said.

Although not born when the murder occurred, he says, the story was told him both by his father and his uncle, and has been known in the family for years. His story in brief is:

"On the night they were killed Dr. Huntsman who had been visiting at his brother's home, was summoned to attend Mrs. Floyd Collins who was ill in the cabin of John Dark. Bates Huntsman was accompanied by the physician. Before reaching the cabin, they stumbled on the James boys and the gang shortly after the murder had been committed.

"The two men were backed up against a tree and then Bates Huntsman was forced, under threat of death, to bury the two bodies while Dr. Huntsman buried the gold.

"Although members of the family sought to have Dr. Huntsman reveal the hiding place he did without its location, although in his later years he was sorely touched by poverty.

MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE.

Some say we do not agree with those who say that it was a fitting end to the career of Frank Holt, dynamiter and gun user, that he should take his own life. It looks to us as though there was inexcusable carelessness on the part of the officials who had him in charge, and they should be properly punished for their dereliction. This man Holt was a dangerous man and he undoubtedly was only one of a group of dynamiters or partially unbalanced men who had set out to create a reign of terror in this country. Had he lived the police would have been able to have traced the men who conspired with him, and, in time, have landed the entire outfit. But with Holt dead his fellow conspirators are safe, at liberty to carry on their nefarious plots, clues to their identity going to the grave with Holt.

The negligent officer who permitted Holt to kill himself is almost as much of a criminal as was Holt himself.

PIGS AND RATTLESNAKES.

One of the most romantic battles that has occurred in this year of battles is one that took place near Clearfield, Pa., last Monday. Nothing but the telegram to The Public Ledger can so accurately describe it, so we reprint it:

Today when Smith was trying to kill two big rattlesnakes and a six-foot blacksnake, which were fighting, he was attacked by all three reptiles. His hogs heard the noise, and, coming to his aid with their sharp hoofs and tusks, tore the snakes to shreds and devoured them. The rattlesnakes, according to Smith, measured nearly three feet. The blacksnake was the largest ever seen in this section.

If we had a department devoted to the most interesting news of the day we would head it with this telegram, provided it was more strongly authenticated. If these pigs are so effective in stopping a battle, a drove of them might be sent over in Europe.—Ohio State Journal.

The towpath road should have been completed and in use a year ago. The new road to the hills from Elbow Locks should have been completed and in use three months ago. Yet there they lie and the Lord and the contractors alone know when they will be finished. It is known however, that our new bridge will be finished inside of two months and if we cannot use it, we can at least go down and look at it and think how nice it would be if we only had the roadway leading to it in passable condition.

Hocking Valley miners had one strike after another and scrapped for years, sending wages up and up a little higher each time in spite of the protests of mine owners that they could not pay more and compete with coal men of other states. Now Hocking Valley miners are reaping what they sowed. They have no work at all for the coal operators have been forced to close their mines, in many instances dismantling them, and sealing them up.

It has been suggested by one of our friends that the city ought to buy the property west of the first alley from the "point", raze the buildings, build the necessary retaining walls, and transform the whole into an attractive little city park. It is a good idea and we hope that it will be carried out some of these days. A more delightful location for a park could not be imagined.

One after another the proposed referendums are falling by the wayside. Now if the Democratic state committee would only follow suit and forget that gerrymander referendum, the poor people could settle down in peace and watch the friends and foes of old Demon Rum go to the mat.

Some times when we feel more than ordinarily depressed over our new water works, we feel like advocating the abandonment of the whole plant and starting all over again. It just seems to be one darned leak after another while the pumps keep pounding away, thumpety-thump.

Some of these days we are going to take a trip up to Ironton and fix upon the exact spot where we will run the corporation line of Greater Portsmouth so that the annexation can proceed without delay as soon as the new traction line gets into operation.

The only other town in the whole world that has a street almost as bad as Gallia street, New Boston, is Allentown, British India. It's street is closed and preserved as a relic of what the ancients conceived to be good city streets.

That contractor out on the Chillicothe pike, while he isn't much on temporary roads, is all wool and a yard wide when it comes to rushing his paving job to completion. You simply have to "hand it to him" on that score.

There were 3,372 Noon Extras sold on the streets Thursday. That's going some, don't you think? This Noon edition of the Times is right on the job and it can be truly said to fill a "want" in the public mind.

Still we haven't as yet noted that the delayed arrival of summer has increased the output of spring poetry.

Just in passing; it is easy enough to find the trouble, the difficulty is in locating the remedy.

HARVEST

THE QUESTION OF HEREDITY.

It isn't how the child is born, it is how it is "raised" that makes it. Heredity is mere hush.—Portsmouth Times.

No, no; our contemporary is wrong. The snail is the only animal without a chance for pride of ancestry or hope for posterity. Heredity is a powerful influence in all our lives. The "raising" means much, and has its important bearing on the man's life, but his inherited tendencies are not to be scorned in our estimate of the man's conduct.

If heredity were mere hush why the demand of learned students of heredity that criminal, imbecile, and mentally or physically degenerate persons be not allowed to propagate? Why do men pay great prizes for horses of fine breeds if blood does not count? Why not take the progeny of common horses and "raise" them to be great trotters and pacers? What if true of horses, dogs, cattle, is true of men so far as their physical ability to transmit physical traits is concerned, and who has not noted inherited mental qualities in men? "Like father, like son", is not hush. It works out too often.

When the careful father and mother take into account the family record of the youth their daughter wants to marry, they are not basing their judgment on hush, but on one of the eternal verities of life, important in every way for the future happiness of their maid. This fact of heredity is not to be dodged or denied. "Blood will tell." Experienced people can trace dominant characteristics through three generations. It can be done in Gallipolis, in Portsmouth, everywhere. Some families have business shrewdness in their blood; others have dishonesty, or sensuality, or cowardice, or imbecility. In some families all the children will "take after" the mother or the father; in others none will resemble one parent and some the other; and occasionally there will be a child who has the characteristics of a grandparent. But heredity gets in its work on every child that is born. Good, clean blood is the finest heritage any man or woman can have, and all parents who have an intelligent interest in their children will be anxious that when they marry, they choose a life companion who will "improve the breed." It counts just as surely in human beings as in horses.

But the good horse, like the good child, must be trained—"raised right" as the saying goes, or he spoiled. A child of fine ancestry may be all wrong if not properly brought up, just as the horse of noble blood may go down if not trained. And every once in a while a child of bad blood may be greatly improved by proper influences. But the child of good blood and good training always has a great advantage over the one who lacks good parentage. This is undeniably true of humanity as a whole.—Gallipolis Tribune.

At the rate of progress there to it will be several million years before the tripod he attains a perfectly safe and sane "Fourth."

OLD NEW YORK

New York, July 10.—James Buchanan Brady, the glittering diamond Jim, is off for the California fair, his first excursion away from the gilded cafes and the trotteries since John Hopkins Hospital gave him a new stomach and was rewarded thereafter with a handsome gift.

Accompanying Brady were Jean Schwartz, the song writer, and his wife Rosika Dolly, the actress, who are seen constantly at the dances in company with Brady. All the restaurants along the line over which Brady will pass have been warned to replenish their supplies for as a feaster he has no equal.

Before leaving some friends of Brady were chaffing him about his easy existence. "It is my idea" said one, "that you have the softest snap in the world."

"No," replied Brady, "my idea of the easiest job in the world is posing as a dead body in the movies."

On the Standard Theatre is a big sign: "The Easiest Way." Closed for the summer.

And G. S. K.'s idea of a country is a place to live in and die for.

Hal Reid, who used to write and appear in the ten-twenty and thirty melodramas and who recently secured the moving pictures of Leo Frank in his cell at Atlanta, lives in a little town in Jersey.

He was asked the other day by a member of his family to hurry home from New York and meet a visitor who was coming in on a train. The visitor was a gentleman 84 years old.

"And did you meet him?" his aunt asked.

"Oh, Gee," replied Reid, "I forgot all about him."

"I wonder where he is. You know he is eighty-four years old."

"Well," replied Reid in a that-settles-the-question tone, "he is old enough to be able to get off a train."

My Pipe and I
Often in the restful twilight,
In smoke-wreaths curling
Whim,
We try to read old memories—
Old friendships past and dim—
My pipe and I.

Soft, in a lazy background,
In tender, mellow glow,
Come lines of loves and woes
That dare we none should know
But pipe and I.

Sweet, as in yore and willing,
Those lips seem near our own—
As once still yearning, smiling—
Nay, even warmer grown
To pipe and I.

Thrills more the dear temptation,
Anticipation's hope—
Through eyes half closed in dreaming
To joy old-time we grope,
The pipe and I.

Yes, with my pipe conjuring,
Its wealth not lost, but added,
When in the dusk recline
My pipe and I.

Let It Jabber!
When money talks it seems always
To make a hit—
At least nobody ever says
"Shut up!" to it.

He Sure Did

Esau and his potage?"
"Yes."
"Didn't he make a mess of it?"

Alive, Anyway
"From a physical point of

We are heartily in favor of the city digging up Walnut street, out at the Terminals and throwing it away. Certainly, in its present condition, it isn't fit for use as a roadway.

The Villa star is on the wane. He has been licked again and his big army is said to have dwindled to 5,000 or 6,000 men. About one more defeat and Uncle Sam will have one more pacified insurrection on his hands.

From we have heard we should say that our Republican friends should change the name of their get-together meetings to get-apart meetings.

The saddest thing these damp July days is to sit on the fence and watch the pretty maneuvering by which candidate for mayor Charlie McCormick is having his innocent young political life jockeyed out of him. 'Tis a cruel, cruel world, Mac.

Pinny, isn't it, we are always wanting something changed, but we never think about changing ourselves. And most often it is with us that the trouble lies.

If the mayor cannot get the right kind of a man for safety director by the personal solicitation route, he always has in reserve the chance to advertise.

"It was all the druggist's fault," was the surprising rejoinder of wifey. "He forgot to send around the sponges."

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, July 10.—Overnight developments in negotiations between this country and Germany imparted greater strength to quoted values today. Berlin's note impelled a hasty retreat of the short interest at the outset with recoveries of 1 to almost 2 points in numerous investment issues.

The rise was met by foreign offerings, causing a general reaction and in some instances wiping out initial gains. In the final trading, however, prices rallied so spiritedly under the leadership of Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Reading and U. S. Steel. The closing was firm. Bonds were steady.

A sharp rebound from yesterday's late weakness was recorded by the stock market at today's opening with gains of a point or better in Union Pacific, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, American Smelting and some of the war specialties. The recovery was materially assisted by hurried covering of contracts by the short interest. London offered some encouragement by its higher range for Americans, notably Canadian Pacific, which advanced two points in that market. Substantial recessions from the top ensued here before the end of the first half hour with a general slackening of activity.

TIMES SERVICE PATTERN 1360

1360. A smart effective and popular style, for the growing girl.

Girls' dress with separate skirt attached to an under waist. This practical model follows the lines of "grown up" style in several points. The blouse or "jacket" as it may be called, is new and smart, and may be finished with a sleeve in wrist length, having a band cuff or in short length, with shaped turn back cuffs. The collar is shaped to conform to these cuffs. For linen, challie, gingham, customer, serge, poplin, repp or chambray this style is excellent. The skirt is a three-piece model. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for an 8-year size.

peaked anyway) and sell the eggs. You could earn pin money that way.

McDermott. O.—Dear Dolly—There is a little blue-eyed girl in this vicinity who I would like very much to go with, but she is engaged to another fellow who she has been going with about a year. Please tell me how I may win her. I am just wild over her. She is 15 years old and has blue eyes and light hair. It may seem hard for me to beat the other fellow, but I am just crazy to have her for my little wife. Now, Dolly, do you think she is pretty?

WORRIED BOY.

Don't be so silly. If the girl is engaged, let her alone. There are lots of other nice-looking girls in McDermott who would be glad to go with you—maybe.

Worried Boy.—Dear Dolly—Can you tell me where I can get a premium list for old coins? I have tried at the banks, but their lists are not very comprehensive.

THANK YOU.—I do not know where you could get a coin guide. However, I have one, and if you will send me your name and address I'll lend it to you until you look it over.

Dear Miss Wise—I would like some advice in regard to my 14-year-old step-daughter. She is awful to support you and also provide you love and does not want to do a thing with the necessities of life. If he about the house. She also talks back and wants to boss me around. Is there any hope for such a girl? Should we send her away to some boarding school? I am worried to death as to how she will turn out. A little advice or encouragement would certainly be appreciated.

A STEP-MOTHER.
I think you will find that most fourteen-year-old girls are a little inclined to be pert and "sassy," but ment is to be washed. Dry in a shady spot.

Dear Dolly—Please give me a recipe for canning peas.

A READER.
Fill the jars with tender small peas and then add enough boiling salted water and cook for an hour. Before preparing for the table, pour the water off and rinse the peas well. String beans may also be prepared this way.

Dear Miss Wise—How can I remove stains of sticky fly-paper from a white dress?

Use benzene oil to remove the stains, then wash the dress in strong soap suds and rinse carefully.

Dear Dolly—Can you tell me how to get rid of white spots on one's finger-nails, and what causes them. Same say the number of spots indicate the number of beaux a girl has.

BESS.
White specks appear when the nail is bruised or when it is not evenly nourished. As the nail grows the white spots may disappear. If they do not, keep the nail wrapped in a bandage wet with spirits of camphor. Or soak finger tips ten minutes daily in olive oil.

Sweater Girl—The silk ones are awfully chic, I think. They can be worn most any time if it's the least bit cool. They are also nice for motor-ing and for cool evenings.

Scioto County Fair Plans To Charter Train To Carry Patrons From Portsmouth

The Scioto County Fair Association Friday, after considering prices on newspaper and circular advertising, decided that it would be better to advertise in newspapers and the committee on advertising, Clyde Brant, J. H. Rockwell and A. E. Moulton were instructed to arrange with the newspapers.

The secretary was instructed to close his books for privileges as a large number have already made applications.

New wells and tanks will provide plenty of water for persons and stock.

Considerable discussion was held on the running of trains to the fair grounds from Portsmouth. Each year special trains have been run but the fair association always had to put up a large guarantee which was a money losing proposition to them. This year they have a new plan that of chartering a train that will run to and from the city several times each of the three days of the fair.

P. H. Harbola and L. E. Taylor, committee on special trains, were instructed to take up the matter of chartering a train.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring back color, gloss and thickness with Grandma's recipe of Sage and Sulphur.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyle's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not ideal, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyle's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

LONDON OPTIMISTIC OVER GERMAN DEFEAT

London, July 10.—A feeling of optimism which has been absent for some time again is manifesting itself here. This feeling is chiefly due to General Botha's victory in German Southwest Africa, which at one stroke deprived Germany of territory larger than that of the German empire. The size of the captured territory is enormously disproportionate to that of the defending force which consisted of 204 officers and 3,166 men. These numbers included reservists and police as well as the regular militia. The cheerfulness of the English had also been aided by the stand of the Russians near Lublin in southern Russian Poland and along the Zelofa Lipa river, in Galicia. It is believed in London that the stubborn resistance of the Russians is doing much to postpone the dreaded German offensive along the western front. Only fragmentary summaries of the German reply to the United States have been published here but for several days the British press has been busy with predictions that Berlin's reply to the second Lusitania note would be unsatisfactory. The newspapers comment on the speech of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, at the Guild Hall, according to their views regarding conscription, one faction maintaining that the war secretary uttered a direct warning of the possibility of forced military service, while the other organs profess to see in his remarks a reaffirmation of the efficacy of the volunteer system.

U. S. PAPERS CONDEMN REPLY

and bargain with the murderers for the safety of our living?

Rochester N. Y., Post Express—The irreducible minimum of the president's demands having been rejected in principle, it seems reasonable to conclude that the next vote of our state department will be dispatched at once and will be a concisely worded reiteration of our contentions. Unless the two governments are in agreement as to the principles involved any discussion of details must manifestly be fruitless.

Hartford, Conn., Times—The specious trickeries of the German note, which now again forces us to confront a serious situation, are hardly worth discussion. The pretense of co-operation in the "refinement" of human construction is thin. The suggestion of neutralized ships is in the nature of condescension and a bribe. The salient fact remains that in substance we have insisted Germany should abandon submarine warfare against merchant ships and Germany has refused.

Indianapolis News—The note of the German government entirely fails to meet the issue. The note is disappointingly and discouragingly unsatisfactory.

Chicago Journal—The German note just received in Washington is one of the most insolent and evasive messages ever addressed by the government of one great nation to another. It remains to be seen whether President Wilson can discover any peaceful method of making such jingoes respect American rights.

Cincinnati Times-Star—Not by any stretch of the imagination can the latest German note be described as meeting the chief demands made by the American government. * * * However, so long as Germany does not actually persist in the course it was following at the time of the sinking of the Falaba and the Gulf-light and the Lusitania, there remains hope that any dispute will be kept within the bounds of diplomatic negotiation.

Louisville Times—Two months after the sinking of the Lusitania Germany not only ignores every request made for reparation but imposes rules and regulations of its own making in disregard of neutral rights and international law with which no self-respecting government can comply. It is impossible to see how negotiations between the two governments can continue on this basis. It would seem that the time has come for President Wilson to act.

Chicago Daily News—The latest official German reply discloses that in Berlin the safety of American lives is still a minor consideration as compared with the safety of German submarines.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch—No matter how profoundly one may sympathize with Germany in her present situation with regard to ocean trade it is impossible to accept either the reasoning or the terms of the Imperial government's note to our government. We have confidence in President Wilson's insight and judgment.

St. Louis Times—It would be idle to say that the relations between the United States and Germany are strained. They are at the breaking point.

Minneapolis, Minn., Journal—Von Jagow, instead of answering the American note, has made a speech to the American people. It remains only for the United States to reiterate the principle for which it stands and then to act toward Germany as shall be found necessary in the light of German acts following that final assertion of rights.

Chicago Abendpost—The German answer to the American note of June 10 is friendly and firm. As an answer to the demands made by our administration the note is what was expected—unsatisfactory.

Fresno Republican—The principle of the freedom of the seas from the slaughter of neutrals has not only been ignored but has been definitely defied.

Seattle Times—America's stand is clearly defined. The country must maintain it. We have no fear that the president will yield.

Spokane Chronicle—The United States cannot now afford to recede from these demands. They were based not only on international law and international precedent, but upon humanity and honor.

Tacoma Daily News—Perhaps we shall get better results from Germany when we shall have shown against England's vicious violation of sea rules the same animosity we have shown against Germany's vicious violations.

EUGENIC LAW BRINGS DROP IN WEDDINGS

Madison, Wis., July 10.—Under the eugenic marriage law the number of weddings in Wisconsin declined from 21,062 in 1913 to 17,245 in 1914 a decrease of 3,817 according to an announcement today by Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health and vital statistics.

FULL TEXT OF GERMAN NOTE

for the sake of peace of an assured permanency. We have been obliged to adopt a submarine warfare to meet the declared intentions of our enemies and the method of warfare adopted by them in contravention of international law.

"With all its efforts in principle to protect neutral life and property from damage as much as possible, the German government recognized unreservedly, in its memorandum of February 4, that the interests of neutrals might suffer from the submarine warfare. However, the American government will also understand and appreciate that in the light for existence which has been forced upon Germany by its adversaries and announced by them, it is the sacred duty of the Imperial government to do all within its power to protect and save the lives of German subjects. If the Imperial government were derelict in these duties it would be guilty before God and history of the violation of those principles of highest humanity which are the foundation of every national existence.

"DISTINCTIONS ARE OBLITERATED"

"The case of the Lusitania shows with horrible clearness to what jeopardizing of human lives the manner of conducting war employed by our adversaries leads. In the most direct contradiction of international law, all distinctions between merchantmen and war vessels have been obliterated by the order of the British merchantmen to arm themselves and to ram submarines, and the promise of rewards therefore, and neutrals who use merchantmen as travelers thereby have been exposed in an increasing degree to all the dangers of war.

"If the commander of the German submarine when destroyed the Lusitania had caused the crew and passengers to take to the boats before firing a torpedo this would have meant the sure destruction of his own vessel. After the experiences in sinking much smaller and less seaworthy vessels, it was to be expected that a mighty ship like the Lusitania would remain above water long enough, even after the torpedoing, to permit passengers to enter the ship's boats. Circumstances of a very peculiar kind, especially the presence on board of large quantities of highly explosive materials (word omitted, possibly 'disrupted'), this expectation. In addition, it may be pointed out that if the Lusitania had been spared thousands of cases of amputations would have been sent to Germany's enemies, and thereby thousands of German mothers and children robbed of breadwinners.

"In the spirit of friendship, wherewith the German nation has been imbued toward the Union and its inhabitants since the earliest days of its existence, the Imperial government will always be ready to do all it can during the present war also to prevent the jeopardizing of the lives of American citizens. The Imperial government, therefore, repeats the assurance that American ships will not be hindered in the prosecution of legitimate shipping and the American citizens in neutral vessels shall not be placed in jeopardy.

"SHIPS MUST BE MARKED"

"In order to exclude any unforeseen dangers to American passenger steamers, made possible in view of the conduct of maritime war by Germany's adversaries, German submarines will be instructed to permit the free and safe passage of such passenger steamers when made recognizable by special markings and notified a reasonable time in advance. The Imperial government, however, confidently hopes that the American government will assume to guarantee that these vessels have no contraband on board, details of arrangement for the unhindered passage of these vessels to be agreed upon by the naval authorities of both sides.

"In order to furnish adequate facilities for travel across the Atlantic for American citizens, the German government submits for consideration a proposal to increase the number of available steamers by installing in passenger service a reasonable number of neutral steamers under the American flag, the exact number to be agreed upon under the same conditions as the above-mentioned American steamers. The Imperial government believes it can assume that in this manner adequate facilities for travel across the Atlantic can be afforded American citizens. There would, therefore, appear to be no compelling necessity for American citizens to travel to Europe in time of war on ships carrying an enemy flag. In particular, the Imperial government is unable to admit that American citizens can protect an enemy ship through the mere fact of their presence on board.

SAYS GERMANY FOLLOWED ENGLAND

"Germany merely followed England's example when she declared part of the high seas an area of war. Consequently, accidents suffered by neutrals on enemy ships in this area of war cannot well be judged differently from accidents to which neutrals are at all times exposed at the seat of war on land when they take themselves into dangerous localities in spite of previous warnings. If, however, it should not be possible for the American government to acquire an adequate number of neutral passenger steamers, the Imperial government is prepared to interpose no objections to the placing under the American flag by the American government of four enemy passenger steamers for passenger traffic between North America and England. Assurances of 'free and safe' passage for American passenger steamers would extend to apply under the identical preconditions to these formerly hostile passenger steamers. The president of the United States has declared his readiness, in a way deserving of thanks, to communicate and suggest proposals to the Government of Great Britain with particular reference to the alteration of maritime war. The Imperial government will always be glad to make use of the good offices of the president, and hopes that his efforts in the present case, as well as in the direction of the lofty ideal of the freedom of the seas, will lead to an understanding.

The undersigned requests the Ambassador to bring the above to the knowledge of the American government, and avail himself of the opportunity to renew to His Excellency the assurance of his most distinguished consideration.

LANSING TO RUSH NOTE TO WILSON

With the probable action that the United States would be compelled to take as a result of Germany's unwillingness to concede to Americans the right to travel on the high seas on peaceful merchantmen of any nationality, Wilson prepares to go to Washington.

President Wilson will start from Cornish, N. H., for Washington in a day or two to consider with his cabinet the grave situation impending. Comment in official quarters today was sparing as to the course that would be pursued, the general feeling being that nothing should be said until the president had returned.

On the other hand those in official quarters familiar with the diplomatic precedents and the progressive development of the American attitude, believed, that having stated its position and having asked for assurances which now have been refused, the only course left open for the United States seemed to be an announcement that it intended to assert its rights as established under the rules of international law. This would mean in effect that the United States would await a violation by Germany before taking action to compel respect for the rights asserted. There was a revival of talk concerning the severance of diplomatic relations, it being recalled in official circles that in the now famous cabinet meeting of May 11, when the sinking of the Lusitania was first considered there was informal understanding that if the negotiations of the United States to secure reparation from Germany for the destruction of American lives in that tragedy failed the American government might be justified in discontinuing diplomatic intercourse with Germany.

Germany Evades Liability For Loss On Lusitania

Germany's complete evasion of the liability for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania has revived the subject most acutely according to well informed persons. For several days there has been an undertone of disappointment and apprehension over what Ambassador Gerard informed the state department the German note would contain. President Wilson has been giving quiet consideration to the character of the reply and some of his advisers already have been making suggestions with reference to the course that should be pursued.

Analyzing the German answer today officials found little on which it appeared negotiations could be further prolonged. The United States has devoted its attention to the principle that Americans should be able to travel on the high seas on unarmed and unresisting belligerent merchant ships of any nationality in accordance with previously recognized principles of international law. Assurances had been asked that before any destruction would be attempted, the visit and search of peaceful vessels and the transfer of passengers and crew to a place of safety would be accomplished. It was recognized that Germany in its latest note had ignored this vital question and had shifted now emphasizing the conditions under which it would promise complete immunity from danger to Americans to traveling even on American ships, a situation which since Germany's circular note with reference to neutral vessels received on May 11 had not been called into question.

Wants U. S. To Guarantee No Contraband Shipments

The expression by Germany of a confident hope that the United States "will assume to guarantee that those vessels have no contraband on board, details of arms for the unhindered passages of these to be agreed upon by both sides" left the implication in the minds of many officials that Germany was prepared to destroy the American passenger ships if they were found to be carrying contraband.

Even though passengers and crew of a neutral ship were transferred to a place of safety, the destruction of the vessel for carrying contraband has been told by the United States to be in violation of the Prussian-American treaty of 1828. It was recalled that in the last note which Germany sent on the Frye case, this treaty was given a new interpretation in that the right to stop American ships carrying contraband and even to destroy them was declared for the first time to be a natural inference from the language of the treaty.

Reference To Lusitania Creates Profound Impression

The reference in the new note to the Lusitania tragedy created a profound impression. After having asked the United States in the first place to consider that the Lusitania was in reality an armed auxiliary cruiser and carried high explosives, which the American government in its note contradicted with official information the German government, it now seemed to have formally justified the action of the submarine commander in sinking the vessel, thereby refusing to disavow the acts the United States had requested. The statement that the German submarine commander could not have halted the vessel without submitting his boat and crew to danger of destruction and the assertion that it was not expected that the Lusitania would sink immediately after being torpedoed, but would remain afloat while passengers were taken to her boats, was taken to mean that Germany held that regardless of whether the Lusitania was armed, the submarine commander took a proper course in torpedoing the ship without warning.

England's Argument Is Viewed as Irrelevant

The argument that England, by violating international law in her embargo on neutral commerce with Germany, had begun a policy of starvation for Germany's civilian population was viewed by officials as entirely irrelevant. The United States has insisted that its relations with one belligerent are not to be confounded with its controversies with another, and that the Lusitania constitutes a square question which must be settled apart from negotiations this government may have with other nations. It was recalled by some officials that Herr Von Jagow, the German foreign minister only recently in a published interview announced that England had not succeeded in starving Germany and that the blockade policy had been a failure.

The view that Americans on board belligerent ships were entitled to no more protection than neutrals would be on land in a war zone, were vigorously disputed by officials, who pointed out that jurisdiction of the belligerent on land was complete while the high seas are jointly owned by all nations.

Germany Makes Only One Definite Proposal

The only definite proposal made by Germany to change the present status—the suggestion that four enemy ships could sail under the American flag if neutral passenger facilities proved inadequate—was considered certain of rejection because, aside from other considerations of principle involved the United States could not undertake to guarantee any interference with the lawful shipment of contraband from its shores to any of the belligerents. Not only is there no federal statute which could be involved in this connection, it was pointed out, but it always has been recognized as a fundamental right of merchants in neutral countries to trade in contraband, the burden being upon the belligerent to capture the cargoes on the high seas. Officials wondered today what influence had caused the German government to completely disregard the American point of view. There were intimations that in Berlin official quarters the belief prevailed that in the United States public sentiment was divided since Mr. Bryan's resignation and that separation of passenger and contraband traffic was favored here as a means of compromising the issue.

LOCAL GERMAN'S VIEW OF THE WAR

By Major Lewis F. Korth, Former Editor of The Correspondent

Friday, July 9, 1915.

From both the eastern and the western war fronts we have heard much of hard fighting this week, but up to the bloody work which grows in intensity each day, but the most important piece of war news came from the south, from the Italian coastland on the Adriatic, where on the lower Istria the Italian offensive after numerous small spurts of fighting around Gorizia (Goetz) Gradisca and Montebellone developed into a general battle.

Vienna says of it: "The third Italian army, consisting of four corps (120,000 men), advanced on Monday after a heavy artillery bombardment against our front from the bridgehead at Gorizia down to the sea (Gulf of Trieste). All attacks were repulsed with terrible loss to the enemy. Thanks to the brave resistance of our troops we held all our positions against the much larger masses of the enemy."

Rome has neither denied nor confirmed the report. After his daily victory bulletins over small affairs Count Luigi Cadorna, the Italian generalissimo, has put us to guessing lately about his doings.

On the east front telling work has been done again in Galicia and Southern Poland. General Linsingen's army has advanced from the little Lipa to the Zlota Lipa, parallel affluents of the Dniester. The numerous small water courses in the plain between the two rivers are studded with fortifications. The Russians as they had on the Dniester but Linsingen's Germans, supported on their left flank by old Bochen-Emmely's Austro-Hungarians, moving east from Lemberg, forced their positions one by one by assault and are advancing again. It is expected that the Russians will make a stand on the Stripa river for the protection of Tarnopol and the railroad to Odessa, their supply line.

According to the London war talk the Russians are offering to the German-Austrians in their northward drive between Vistula and Bug (in Southern Poland) more resistance than they did in Galicia and are bringing heavy reinforcements to the Lublin-Kovel line, upon which Archduke Franz Joseph, General Mackensen and General Woychick are advancing from different directions.

Vienna reports: "The Russians, who were badly defeated by Archduke Franz Joseph at Krassnik, the scene of the first Austrian victory last summer, retreated in a westerly direction. On Monday our troops took Cieszanow and the heights of Wyszynia, driving the enemy toward Tarnopol. We captured 11,500 prisoners and seventeen machine guns."

more fright than fact at the bottom of the rumors, which may have sprung from the temporary closing of the Dutch-Belgian border to railroad travel. However, there has been very heavy fighting again at Arras, La Bassée and Ypres, in which the French by Berlin accounts have suffered heavy loss, one command of some 4,000 men losing two-thirds of them.

While London fears for Calais, Paris fears for Verdun, where the Germans have lately made appreciable progress in the wooded Argonne, at the Meuse wedge (St. Mihiel) and don the plateau. In the western Argonne at Le Pretre the army of the Crown Prince took considerable ground with several thousand prisoners, a number of guns and a pioneer supply depot with a goodly amount of material. In a night attack the French took the heights of Hillegeist in the Vosges, which is admitted by Berlin.

General Hamilton, the British commander on the Galipoli peninsula, reports "a desperate attack of the Turks to drive the Allies into the sea" on Monday, in which they failed and lost heavily. The Turkish version of the battle sounds different.

Consternation has been created in British and French admiralty circles by Athens advice that six new German submarines have arrived in the Dardanelles which might necessitate the withdrawal of the fleet to a place of safety. The fact that the French transport Carthage, fitted out as an auxiliary cruiser, with a cargo of war material to the value of $300,000, was torpedoed and sunk at Cape Hellas, the southern point of the peninsula, on July 4 lends color to the report.

A statement of the German Admiralty relative to the naval fight in the Baltic sea near Gohland, confirms the report that the German minelayer Albatross was run aground. (Petrograd had it that the battleship Wittelsbach had been sunk.) A light German naval force met a superior Russian cruiser squadron and retired. The Albatross, a small vessel, was cut off and fought for two hours against four armored cruisers. Although disabled by some thirty shots and sinking she did not surrender but her captain beached her. Twenty of her crew were killed, twenty-seven wounded, none captured. When the Albatross was missed, the German squadron returned, but the Russians had fled. They attacked in Swedish waters and the Swedish government has protested against this breach of neutrality.

During a reconnaissance of the Italian fleet on the Adriatic coast between Pola and Trieste the Italian armored cruiser Anafi, 10,000 tons, was torpedoed and blown up by an Austrian submarine. Officers and crew had time to save themselves by jumping overboard. The Anafi was put into service in 1908.

The big English steamer Anglo Californian, 7,333 tons, with a load of horses for the British army from Montreal, had a hairbreadth escape from the gunfire (not torpedoed) of a German submarine, but its captain and some of the crew were killed.

The Overseas News Agency wires from Berlin that British shipping is losing a million dollars a week by the German submarine warfare. Every week two big U-boats of the new cruiser type with a steaming radius of thousands of miles are launched. The continuous advance of foodstuffs prices in England and France is proof of their effective warfare, Berlin holds.

Turkey has protested against illegal British submarine activity in territory where no war zone has been established and therefore is open water. Unarmed passenger ships have been sunk without warning, even a hospital ship with 700 wounded. Great Britain has designed the same method of warfare in the German war zone as barbaric, Turkey declares. It develops that the Armenian, when trying to get away, was fired upon by the German submarine to bring her to a halt, which shows that the latter had a regular armament of guns and was of the new cruiser type invented since the beginning of the submarine warfare. It is said to be built for high sea service with a steaming radius of 2,000 miles.

By report of the London board of trade not less than 203 British steamers and sailing ships were sunk by German submarines during the month of June. Neutral critics figure the losses of the Allies on the Dardanelles since beginning of the operations at over 100,000 men. The British hospitals in Cyprus, Alexandria and Cairo are overcrowded.

One of the substantial results of the German-Austrian victories in Eastern Galicia is the recovery of the big oil fields in Borislav and Drohobiz from where the central powers can draw much needed supplies again. Before their retreat the Cossacks set the reservoirs afire and with them 16,000 full tank cars went up in flames. The loss is estimated at 180 million kronen.

Italy has protested in London against the invasion of Albania by the Serbians (they took Durazzo last week) and the occupation of Skutari by the Montenegrins. It claims the protectorate over Albania. There is trouble in the Allies camp. As long as Italy held aloof, Greece showed a willingness to join the entente powers. Now that her rival has taken a hand under promises and things look blue for the Allies the Greek press has changed its tune. The Athens papers all have turned against Italy. Embros asks: "Who can trust an ally, if not honor and conscience control his actions?" Chronos speaks of perfidy. Neon Asti says: "Calumny did half kill the king. Espirini says: 'Italy's declaration of war after nine months of hungry waiting sounds ridiculous.' Venizelos is silent. The Crown Prince, who is considered a good soldier, has described the mobilization of the Italian army as boy's work.

Three old Peers startled the English House of Lords on Monday with the solemn warning that England was drifting toward bankruptcy by the war, Lord Lereburn, Haldane and Aldwyn. All three were former cabinet members.

London tells us that in military circles the conviction is gaining ground that in the western war area an effective offensive of the Allies would be impossible before next spring. That is simply a declaration of military bankruptcy before a year after the declaration of war has rolled around.

Swiss papers state that the desire for peace is growing in Russia and discontent prevails among peasants and professional classes. La Tribuna of Geneva and the Neue Zuercher Zeitung publish similar reports from Paris. There is dissatisfaction among the soldiers at the front over the slaughter of men without adequate results.

The Spanish mail steamer Alcantari, arrived at Manila from India ports, brings advices of great unrest among the population there, open enmity against the whites and mutiny in several regiments in the Punjab. The truth of former similar reports has been denied in London.

The German Economist W. Michaelis publishes a set of tables showing that the belligerents have 21,770,000 men under arms, the Allies 12,820,000 and the central powers with Turkey 8,950,000. During the Boer war Great Britain threatened the Netherlands

An English House—By John Henry Newson

"HOME OF CHARACTER" No. 143

This house (14x31 feet) is built of rough red brick to the top of the first floor windows and in the central dormer the brick is carried to the top of the second floor windows, while the gable ends are carried out in half timber with plaster panels. The wall space of the above and library is filled with windows elevated sufficiently above the floor to provide ample room for bookcase, or other furniture. The long hall in the front with the stairway to the second floor provides for the seclusion of the library from the rest of the house and at the same time convenient access to the front door is made directly from the kitchen without passing through any of the rooms.

The living room occupies the entire end of the house and the dining room opens off of it and also off of the main hall. The kitchen is separated from the dining room by means of a pantry, and is provided with every necessary kitchen accessory. The second floor is divided into three bedrooms and a bath, with a sleeping porch off of the main bedroom. The porch upon the front has a tiled floor and is terraced to the main grade line so that a railing is unnecessary around this porch. While a small flight of stone steps is provided at one end of the porch, this plan and exterior is one that will be appreciated by those who desire a house carried out in good architectural design with all the conveniences of a modern home. A more complete description of this house will be gladly given upon application. Simply address your inquiry to Mr. John Henry Newson, House of Character Dept., The Times, and Mr. Newson will answer your letters. The inclusion of a 2c stamp will be appreciated.

This house should not cost to exceed $8000 under most unfavorable building conditions, and under favorable conditions should be built for $5000; $5250 would be a fair average cost.

LOST HIS POCKETBOOK. IT CONTAINED $200

J. B. Dodge, manufacturer of Richwood, W. Va., who arrived in this city late last night in his automobile had the misfortune to lose his black bill book containing $200 in bills and two certificates of deposit for $100 each. He had the book in Catlettsburg, Ky., when he paid a bill and did not have it out after that time. He is sure he dropped it when he got out of his car to unfasten a piece of wire that was caught in the wheel between here and Ironton. He is offering a liberal reward for its return to him at Richwood, W. Va.

Meeting With Fine Success

Mrs. R. S. Cox has returned from Columbus, where she visited her husband, who is district organizer for the Macabees. He is now at Bremen, O., and is meeting with fine success.

Thank Mayor.

The mayor is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. Cornelia Troutman, secretary of the Federation of Women's clubs, thanking him for his co-operation and assistance relative to the recent Chautauque.

"Are We the Offspring of Apes?" was seriously considered by Rev. J. E. Obusht at the tent last night. The "thinner than air theory" of evolution was exploded. It was said that "evolution" was invented to avoid the Bible, and that some people preferred to trace their ancestry to the sleepy ape than to believe the story of creation as found in the book of Genesis. The speaker declared that if any concluded that they must hold the "ape theory" and consider themselves their offspring they were welcome to enjoy it to the limit, but that he preferred to believe the simple story that God created Adam and Eve, and placed them in their Eden home to enjoy its bounties and privileges.

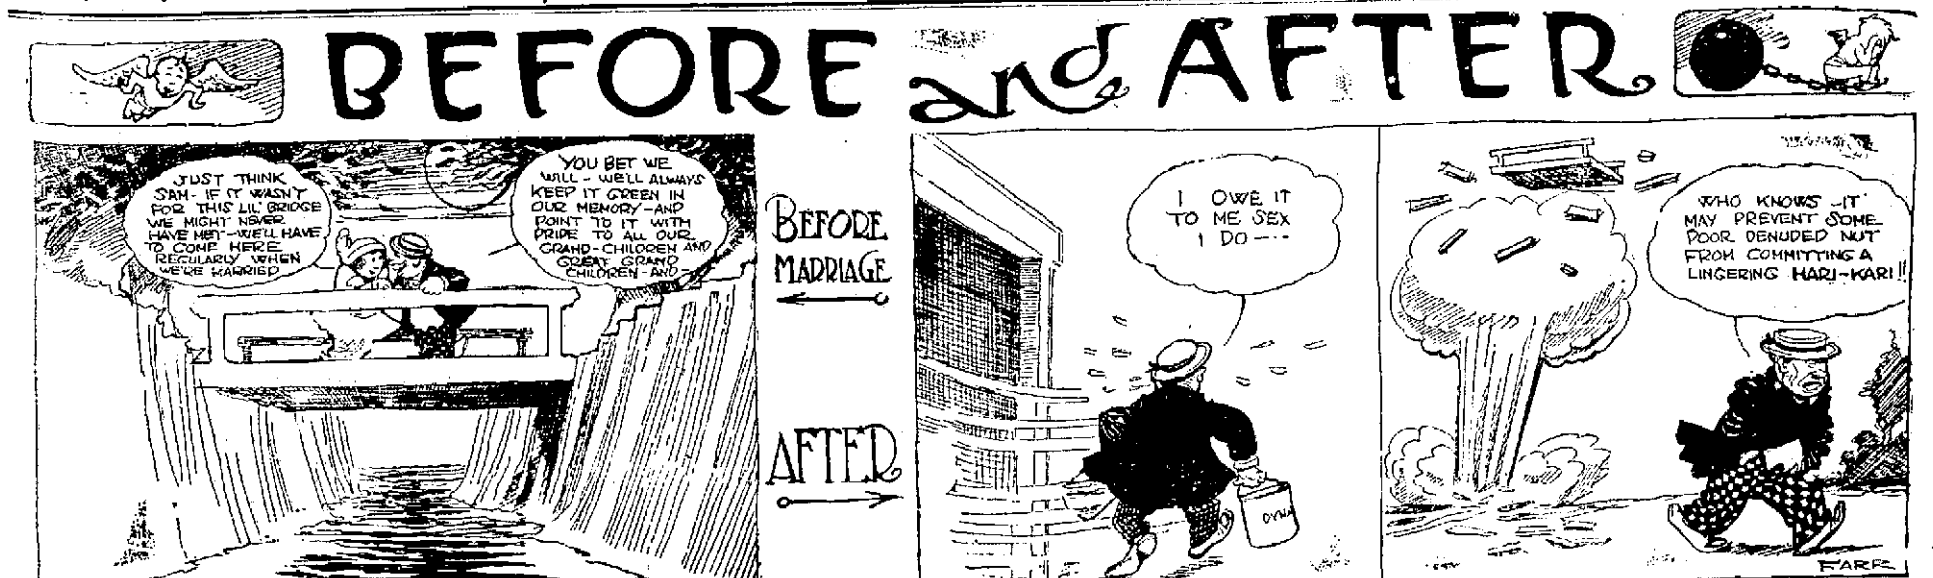

In tracing the genealogy of Christ in the third chapter of Luke, that writer says: "Enos, which was the son of Seth, which was the son of Seth, which was the son of Adam, which was the son of God."

It was also said that the day in the beginning was caused then, as now, by a revolution of the earth on its axis, and that the side toward the sun is called day, and the side in the shadow is called night; and that as far as man is able to ascertain the length of the day has been governed by natural cause and its length depends upon its speed. Since no tangible proof has been given that the day in the beginning was longer than our day, the speaker preferred to believe the story of Genesis.

"The Bible has been assailed and attacked by unbelievers, but its simple story still remains, and that its holy influence has done more toward elevating man from heathenism to christianity and making him a better citizen, nobler and ruer in his aspirations, than any man-made theory in existence, makes it reliable and authentic, so that none need fear the fulfillment of its promises."

The Scioto County W. C. T. U. has postponed the meeting planned for next Monday and will meet on Monday, July nineteenth, at the Rutelins Street Baptist church. Mrs. J. B. Guthrie, state Y. P. T. B. worker, will be present and will be an interesting addition to the staff of workers of the county union.

LOCALS DROP SECOND GAME TO IRONTON NAILERS

DeLotelle Pitches Team To A Victory; Score Was 4 to 2

PORTSMOUTH suffered its second straight defeat at the hands of the Ironton Nailers at Ironton Friday and the fifth defeat on the present swing around the circuit. The score yesterday was 4 to 2 and Ironton was pitched to a victory by a local boy, Oscar DeLotelle. One of the features was a home run by Calbert in the fourth inning, which put the Nailers ahead.

DeLotelle pitched one of his best games of the season and was given full support despite the fact that two errors were made behind him.

Portsmouth scored its first run in the second inning when Bush drew a pass, Olson had an error on Uhlir's ground ball and DeLotelle's bat pegged to catch him stealing second. Portsmouth scored another run in the sixth inning.

Ironton scored its first run in the second inning when Calbert singled, Perry sacrificed and Calbert scored on Calbert's error. Ironton made two in the fourth when Calbert drove out a batter with a runner on. The last Irontonian hit came in the seventh when De Lotelle led off with a hit and was sacrificed to second by Olson. Stadfeldt filed to Calton, but De Lotelle scored on Taylor's hit to left. Taylor celebrated his return to the game by cracking out two hits.

Owing to the illness of Umpire Pfirman who has a heavy cold, Pfirman and Johnson umpired the game and gave good satisfaction. It was featured by the hitting of Calbert and Sharmann. The score:

Olson, 2b	3	0	0	1	1	1
Bladfield, ss	4	0	1	2	1	1
Taylor, rf	4	0	2	4	0	0

Rarden Plays At Millbrook Sunday

What promises to be the fastest amateur game of the season will be played at Millbrook Sunday by the club of the Whitaker-Glossner company and the Champs of Haden.

Both teams have been playing an eight-inning brand of baseball all season. The record for the Champs being 16 wins out of 17 games, while the steel workers have topped 7 out of 8 games.

The Rarden huskies have defeated several of the Portsmouth clubs so far and are coming down in the expectation of adding another tally to their long list of victories, but the mill men have always proven a stiff proposition and there is every indication that the game will be a lively match.

The steel workers will lineup as follows: Brennan and C. Sampson c. Shultz and P. Sampson ss, Klitch 1b, Etalen 2b, Keller 3b, Evans, Grimm, Shoemaker, McCall and Danfield, outfielders.

The game will be called at 2 p. m. sharp and admission will be 25c, free for ladies.

Oh no, Johnny Baggan is not hitting in the Texas league. That's a mistake. Last week in seven games he was up 29 times and lined out 11 hits, hitting the work with a .359 swatting average.

Toledo, O., July 10.—That E. S. Barnard, of the Cleveland Baseball club has quit in his attempt to bring the Cleveland Spiders to this city is the story now going the rounds. It is said that the bankers who are now running the affairs of the Spiders will insist that they be taken from Cleveland. These men, it is said, will shortly seek to interest financiers in the purchase of the club.

Yankees Are After Game

The Yankees' challenge the Steel Plant game to a ball game to be played any time in the near future.

The Yankees will journey to New Boston where they will demand the New Boston club on Forbes demand.

Lineup For Sunday's Game

Following is the lineup of Ed Mowery's club who play the Clippers at St. Sraus park Sunday afternoon: Smith, 1b, Levi of, Ross ss, Leverette 2b, Davis 3b, Hartledge 3b, Hart or Gablet c, Oursler p, Mowery rf.

TEAM MUST PLAY, FANS MUST HELP

In talking with President Richard Schenck, of the local baseball club, several days ago, he stated that it would probably depend to a great extent on the way the fans came out to the games during the night game series now being played in this city, and also upon the way the local team fared in the contests, whether Chillicothe will remain in the Ohio State league. Unless the fans here can show the management that they want baseball and are willing to support it, and unless the team shows the fans that they can furnish a good brand of ball and win at least a few games, it is very probable that the local club will be either turned over to some other city, or else disbanded. The management does not want to do either of these, but at the present rate things can not continue very long.

Down on the Reds.
They dropped two games to the New York Giants Friday, 5 to 4 and 4 to 3. They were beaten out in the ninth inning of the second game after it looked like the Reds would secure an even break.

Crouch Murders THE OLD HORSEHIDE
"Skip" Crouch is murdering the pill for the Dallas team. Last week he batted at a .455 clip making 10 hits out of 22 trips to the plate.

JOY FOR JOHNNY
Johnny Evers is proud over two pieces of mail he received while nursing back his health last winter in South Carolina. One was from Ty Cobb and the other from Honus Wagner.

Always Was "Good Scout"
Jack McAllister, who has been acting as business manager for the Cleveland Association team, has returned to his former duties as scout for the Cleveland American League club.

Was Hit On Arm
Outfielder McHenry was not in Friday's game at Ironton. He was hit on the arm by a thrown ball before the game started and the injury was so painful that he was forced to remain out of the game, Larry Jacobus going to left field.

SOUNDS LITTLE 'MILLBROOKY'
Rocky Mount defeated Portsmouth Thursday 2 to 1 and the winner was pitched by Al Leake, You Know Me Al, who was with Charleston last year. The game was won when Leake singled, Goosewee tripled and Jimmy Edwards drove in the winning run with a single. Sounds rather familiar, this combination, eh, Mr. Fan.

PENNANT FOR RAY RYAN
Lynchburg, Va., July 10. In one of the prettiest races the Virginia League has ever seen Rocky Mount, piloted by Ray Ryan of Cincinnati, captured the pennant for the first half of the season, the Down Homers turning the trick by taking two out of three from Newport News. While the Spiders went to Rocky Mount for the final series, two out of three games were needed by either of the teams for the honor, for they were tied. Rocky Mount won the opening game while Newport News took the middle game of the series and Rocky Mount the last.

GOOD PITCHING WAS THE MAIN SPOKE IN THE ROCKY MOUNT WHEEL. Pops Applegate and Torgue formed the winning trio, while O'Brien, the Baltimore boy, managed to get on the right side of the record by a slight margin. Back of this, however, was a regular Detroit outfield, for Ryan has a trio of rare sluggers in East, Gray and Little. These outfielders in the last 15 games averaged .370 at the bat. Gray topped the three with an average of .531. Little was next with .547 and East third with .538. In the last 17 games of the half season Gray did not fail to get a hit, a condition that shows something of the consistent manner in which this former Richmonder has been doing things with the stick for Ryan.

back to Chillicothe for today. Charleston was at Charleston yesterday, plays at Lexington today and jumps back to Charleston Monday to meet the coming Taylors. Frankfort then jumps back to Lexington to entertain Lexington at the capital. A better traveling schedule might be arranged and would benefit all concerned.

BOOSTER DAY FOR CHARLESTON
Today the management of the local baseball club will start the sale of Boosters tickets, says the Charleston Gazette. The tickets will be sold for $1 and will admit the owner or anyone to the grand stand any two games this season. The object of this sale is to carry the club through their long stay away from home which begins next Friday and the locals will be on foreign soil sixteen days.

GOOD FOR OLD BABES
Chillicothe, July 10.—The Babes pounded Kuykendall hard all through the game Friday and gathered up 11 runs while Singleton was invincible and only allowed three hits. COBB IN .400 CLASS
Ty Cobb, Detroit, once more has established a .400 class in the big leagues. Today's averages show him leading the batters of the American league with .401; selling the pace for base stealers with 51 thefts and in runs scored with 79. Crawford, his teammate, shares second place with Jackson, Cleveland, at .332; but Crawford leads in total bases at 140. Fournier, Chicago, is fourth with .332. Then come E. Collins, Chicago, .325; Veach, Detroit, .318; La Jode, Philadelphia, .318; Janviro, Boston .318; Speaker, Boston .315; Struss, Philadelphia .311.

STRANGE TWIST OF THE GAME
One of the strange features that arise in base ball is shown in the case of Jack Murray, ex-Ironton, who is to join the Cubs. There are two Notre Dame men playing the outfield in the National league, and one of them Murray, is to supplant Williams, the other one.

Zimmerman Climbs
Chicago, July 10.—Banging out twenty one safe hits in his last 26 times at bat, Helio Zimmerman of the Chicago Cubs raised himself last week from about fourth place to twelfth among the National League batters and threatened with his average of .285 to break into the first ten. Last week his average was .251. The first ten hitters according to averages published here today, which include the records of last Wednesday and of only those players who have played in at least half the number of games are: Daubert, Brooklyn .367; Doyle, New York .320; Mark, New York .320; Ludrus, Philadelphia .323; Collins, Pittsburgh .317; Cobb, Cincinnati .314; Wade Rulifer, Cincinnati .311; Wilson, St. Louis .308; J. Smith, Boston .301; Sater, Chicago .301.

Lexington Again Defeated Senators
Lexington, July 10.—The air-fight pitching of Parks, the local lad who will not play baseball on Sunday, enabled the Colts to take the second straight game from Billy Bees' crew in the first ten. Parks established a record in only pitching to 93 men in the first nine innings and was never in danger of being scored on. HUSBAND DEAD; LOVER WOULDN'T WED HER SO WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE

Dose Of Opium Is Taken, But Doctor Prevents Tragedy

Mrs. Anna Rohrbach, aged about 50 years, a domestic at the George W. Gillen home, corner of Second and Madison streets, took a dose of opium poisoning Friday evening, supposedly with suicidal intent.

The woman was still writhing in agony Saturday morning and refusing to answer questions put to her, but was believed to be out of danger.

Dependency over the tragic end of her husband, Rudolph Rohrbach, who is said to have shot himself to death at Wheeling, W. Va., three weeks ago, and the unwillingness of her lover, Joe Hoskins, to marry her right away, are thought to have prompted her rash act.

Mrs. Rohrbach had complained of a sick headache Friday morning. During the afternoon she went to bed. Later Mrs. Gillen went to the room to arouse her, as supper is always prepared early for her son, Harry D. Gillen, night watchman at the Reliable Engine Company's plant, but finding that she was still sick, advised her to remain quiet and she would cook supper in her stead.

Woman's Grooms
Hear The
Later the woman was heard groaning, and becoming alarmed, Mrs. Gillen called in some neighbors. Although these included some who were on the very best of terms with her, Mrs. Rohrbach closed her eyes and sealed her lips and ignored all questions put to her. Hoskins was sent for, but she would not look up at him or converse with him. It was then decided to summon a physician. City Physician Dr. Charles Wendelken responded to the call. The woman refused to tell him what she had taken, but he found evidence of a slow poisoning and treated her accordingly. She continued restless throughout the night.

From what could be learned in and about the Gillen home, Mrs. Rohrbach had been brooding notice.

"Fish" Conwell had a great week with the stick last week, battling 338 for the Waco team. In six games he was 10 times and cracked out seven hits. He is having a banner year in all departments of the game.

It did not take Red Dooin very long to jump into a Giant uniform as he took one of the games against the Reds yesterday and secured a hit. Dooin is not all in by any means and should bolster the Giants' catching department.

ably ever since receiving a letter from a married daughter at Wheeling telling of her husband killing himself. She asked Hoskins to marry her, but he wanted to put off the wedding to some distant date. This preyed upon her mind. She had tried to secure a divorce last fall, but failed because of Hoskins. He, it was said, was then eager to marry her. They had been arrested at New Boston eight years ago for alleged living in adultery and had kept company ever since. It was while working out her fine under the late Sheriff John Gillen that the latter's aged parents became acquainted with her and she has been their servant for the past three years.

Conduct Has Been Good
Her conduct within the Gillen home itself has always been above reproach and she was regarded as a good worker. For a time she was employed at the White Bear hotel, now the West End hotel. She has grand-children living at Wheeling. She frequently spoke of her past domestic troubles, claiming that she left her home in Wheeling because her husband was a hard drinker. Hoskins is a former mill man, but in recent years has been employed at the Portsmouth Brewing & Ice Company's plant. He admitted to a Times man Saturday that the woman had asked him to marry her after hearing of her husband's death but said he was not ready, as he wanted first to be fully satisfied that Rohrbach is dead.

Dr. Wendelken found Mrs. Rohrbach much better Saturday, and reported her out of danger. She still refused to tell him what she had taken.

Dr. Heisel In The City
Dr. Clifford Heisel, of Covington, Ky., passed through Portsmouth Friday on his way to South Webster, where he was accompanying his mother, who is ill, on a visit to relatives. Dr. Heisel spent the time between trains with his aunt, Mrs. Minnie Heisel of Harvard Place.

Recent Reductions Cause of Big Annual Saving to Tire Users

B. F. Goodrich Company Claims Credit of Having Saved
Purchasers $25,000,000
A Year

People who own automobiles certainly have cause to congratulate themselves, if figures compiled by The B. F. Goodrich Company, showing the money tire purchases have saved since the promulgation of that company's "Fair-List" prices on January 31st, last, are to be accepted as even approximately correct—and there appears to be no reason to doubt their accuracy.

"It is estimated by the Goodrich Company," said an official of The B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio, "that the saving to tire users, because of the general reduction of prices, which followed the publication of the 'Fair-List' will be no less than $25,000,000 a year. One's first thought is that these figures cannot possibly be correct, but the theory on which they are worked out by the Goodrich people becomes reasonable when it is explained.

"This theory is interesting as well as instructive. Investigation has shown that there are in use in the United States 1,623,555 cars which are equipped with pneumatic tires. Estimating that each of these cars will require at least one full set of tires every year and that the average saving per tire, owing to the general reduction inaugurated by the Goodrich company on its Safety Treads is $3.50, it is found that $25,000,000 is well within the total saving that has been effected for purchasers.

"That the average saving of $3.50 per tire is a conservative estimate is shown by a glance at the table which represents the reductions due to the promulgation of the Goodrich 'Fair-List.' This table shows the following reductions on Goodrich Safety Tread Tires: Size 30x3, saving $3.20; 30x3 1-2, $4.50; 32x3 1-2, $4.10; 32x4, $5.30; 33x4, $5.35; 34x4, $5.70; 34x4 1-2, $7.70; 35x4 1-2, $7.70; 36x4 1-2, $8.40; 37x5, $10.55.

"On eight of her widely advertised makes of tires the reductions are approximately the same as on Goodrich Safety Treads, although some of them apply to smooth tread tires only, while the manufacturers have not as yet met Goodrich prices on non-skid tires. The reductions all along the line, however, are sufficient to give purchasers an average saving of fully $3.50 per tire. If accurate figures could be obtained it would, no doubt, be found that the average saving was considerably in excess of the amount on which the Goodrich estimate is based, and that the actual saving to tire users will be much more than $25,000,000 a year.

"In view of the steadily increasing prices of almost everything else, the vast reduction in the prices of tires is something for which our owners have cause to be devoutly thankful.

"It is interesting to note in this connection that The B. F. Goodrich Company has issued a challenge which seems likely to put a quietus upon certain representations, or misrepresentations, that have been going the rounds since the 'Fair-List' reductions were announced. Charges are made by the Goodrich Company that tire manufacturers who could not, or would not meet the Goodrich 'Fair-List' prices at the time of their publication caused it to be stated widely that Goodrich Tires had been lowered in quality and that they were being made with fewer layers of material than they had contained prior to the reduction of prices.

"In reply to this argument, the Goodrich Company offers to pay the full price for any Goodrich Safety Tread Tire sold since the publication of the 'Fair-List' on January 31st, 1915, 'which when cut open shows any reduction in quality, in number of layers of canvas, in thickness, or quality of rubber, when compared with any other Goodrich Safety Non-Skid made by us, and sold at our higher prices current before the Goodrich 'Fair-List' movement."

"Tire users are authorized to extend this offer to any tire dealer or manufacturer.

"The positive statement is made by the Goodrich Company that the tires it is making and has been making since the announcement of the 'Fair-List' propaganda are better than any fabric tires that it or any other manufacturer ever produced before, which, apparently, is a broad enough declaration to cover the entire subject."

Scioto Is Rising
Heavy Ruel had a force of men at work Friday sending drift wood that came down on the Scioto rise underneath the temporary bridge end first to protect the structure against damage. The Scioto is rising, but the high stage of the Ohio has prevented a strong run-out.

Woman Supposed To Be Drowned Has Sister Here; Mother Is At Harrisonville

Miss Rebecca Smith, aged 27 years, the woman on the towboat Convoy when she capsized and sank just below the Southern bridge in Cincinnati, during Wednesday night's big storm there, proves to be a sister of Mrs. William Suter, wife of an N. & W. conductor of No. 1724 Seventeenth street.

Mrs. Suter is prostrated from shock and grief. Her husband and her brother, Henderson Smith of Tick Ridge, left for Cincinnati early Saturday morning to begin a search for the body as it is now regarded as certain Miss Smith was drowned.

Miss Smith was employed in a Cincinnati shoe factory but during slack times would take employment as chambermaid on the Convoy, having been well acquainted with the commander, Capt. Williams and his family. He was recently transferred to another boat. She was for years employed at the Selby shoe factory in this city, leaving here at the time of the first strike six years ago. She was preparing to return home, writing a letter to her sister, Mrs. Suter, a week ago, telling of her coming.

The missing woman's widowed mother, Mrs. W. T. Smith, lives at Harrisonville. Her father was overcome by gas while cleaning a well on his home place and died July 17, 1914.

Mrs. Suter had been out calling Friday and when she returned home in the afternoon a friend called up and apprised her of her sister's fate, having read of it in the Times Noon Extra.

Want Walk Lowered

The city officials have asked Rev. Freeman W. Chase to lead a movement towards having property owners of Highland avenue to lower their walks at the point north of Lincoln street. The depression there forces many pedestrians to travel the street to avoid falling.

To Vacate Home

Fred W. Warner, of the Interstate Transfer company, whose wife died recently, is preparing to vacate his fine home property on Seventeenth street. He and young son will make their home with relatives.

Sells Pleasure Boat

Captain Harry Donnelly, of the wharfbat, has just sold his fine big pleasure launch, Harriet D., to the Point Pleasant, W. Va., Dry Dock company.

RAILROADS SET GOOD EXAMPLE

Some idea as to what extent railways will spend money towards increasing their motive power may be gleaned from the fact that the N. & W. expended over $2,000,000 bettering its grades between Portsmouth and Columbus and it resulted in increasing its tonnage 8 per cent.

At a meeting where this was brought out Friday all agreed that the state and counties should follow the example of railways by eliminating curves and straightening roads and paying the same attention to the principle of rise and fall and much would be gained.

Humming Bird Revived

A humming bird flew against a large plate glass window of the day afternoon. It was picked up by Jos. G. Reed company's building, and nursed back to life by a pass-Second and Washington streets, Jerby.

Ironton is Visited By Big Rainstorm

The Ironton Irontonian of Saturday morning said:
"Probably the heaviest rain of the year occurred early this morning, beginning at about 2:30 o'clock, and continuing throughout the early morning. The rain fell in torrents and within the space of a very few minutes the streets were flooded and the sewers were unable to carry off the surface water with sufficient rapidity to prevent the water from forming on each street a small river."

BRIDGE DANGER IS NOW PASSED

The Scioto river was still running out rather lively Saturday morning, but all danger to the temporary bridge is considered over. It was fortunate that the Ohio was at a high stage, this having the effect of holding back the run-out. The Scioto is backed up as far as the N. & W. bridge at Vern. Rapids up the valley were unusually heavy.

DECIDED TO MAKE THE TEMPLE IMPROVEMENTS

At a special meeting last night of Aurora Lodge, No. 48, F. & A. M., the building committee was authorized to go ahead with the remodeling of the fifth and sixth floors of the Masonic Temple, plans for which have already been drawn. Much pretty sentiment characterized the talks of many of the members relative to the building which is their lodge home.

The plans call for a tearing out of the present Blue Lodge room in the south-eastern part of the fifth floor, and converting it into a banquet hall, with the kitchen located where the club rooms are now; the extension of the Com-mandory room, eliminating the Red Cross room below and the banquet room above, thus furnishing one large lodge room for all four Masonic bodies, with a seating capacity of over five hundred, a large roving stage, a large hall, and special conveniences for musical features; the present armory will be converted into a smoking room, property room, and concealed organ loft. The sixth floor billiard room and a portion of the fifth floor club rooms will remain as they now are, except that the billiard room will be extended over the present Blue Lodge room, which is now two stories in height.

CAMP SWAMPED

The Boy Scouts of Fullerton were also caught in the deluge of last Wednesday night, experiencing discomforts which they braved in true Boy Scout fashion. In charge of their Scoutmaster, Pearl Willis, they left several days ago for a camp on Schmitz. They pitched their tent in a big, level field, especially suited for a camp.

About two o'clock Thursday morning they were awakened by a peculiar noise. In addition to the terrific downpour, they investigated and found their tents completely surrounded by water, which stood several inches deep on the field. They had to walk through water in some places knee-deep, to get out. None of them were injured.

TERRIFIC DAMAGE IN CINCINNATI BY WORST STORM IN HISTORY

Picture at top shows the wreck of five buildings at Sixth and Mound streets; bottom, rescuers at work.

At least twenty-five are dead and property has been damaged to the extent of $1,000,000 in Cincinnati by the worst wind and rain storm in the city's history.

Two steamboats went down in the Ohio river, about 100 houses were leveled to the ground, a half dozen church spires toppled over and in fact the majority of houses in the city suffered some sort of damage or other.

Fifty club houses along the river were swept away. Several of the best race horses at Latonia were drowned, among them Little Father, Blood Test and Blind Baggage, for which $20,000 recently was offered.

Sherrard Johnson Resigns U. S. Office

It was learned Saturday that Attorney Sherrard Johnson had resigned as local United States Commissioner, effective at once.

Mr. Johnson said he had no particular reason for giving up the office, further than that it interfered somewhat with his other duties. He has been filling the place for the past several years, having been appointed about a year following the death of the late Judge Henry Hall, who served as commissioner for many years. He has no idea who his successor will be, or whether one will be named. The appointment is made by Judge Howard C. Hollister, judge of the United States district court at Cincinnati.

WANT ORDER PLACED FOR STRUCTURAL IRON

The city officials have suggested that L. E. Stürm, the successful bidder on the Lawson Rain viaduct job, place his order immediately for structural iron needed in completing the structure, because others are experiencing great delays in securing such material from mills over the country. The last of the work on the viaduct is concrete casting of steel, which if to be the best, should be poured before freezing temperature sets in.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings 1, 28-40.
Memory Verses, 33, 40—Golden Text,
1 Chron. xxviii, 9—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

To get the connective link look at the important events since last lesson.
After David's return to his throne there was a rebellion under a wicked man named Absalom, the son of David, but he was overthrown and slain, and a city was saved through the influence of a wise woman who may be ranked with the wise woman of Tekoa and with Jezebel, the wife of Hiel (1 Sam. xx, 1, 16, 22). In 11 Sam. xiii we have one of David's great sons of de-lineance, which is repeated in full in Ps. xviii. In 11 Sam. xiii we have some of David's last words, which we may perhaps find space to consider in connection with the record of his death in today's lesson.

But there are some things which we must notice in 11 Sam. xiii, such as the story of the threshing floor of Ornan, the Jebusite, over which the Lord stayed, saying, "It is enough," and which David bought for fifty shekels of silver and the whole place or hill for 6000 shekels of gold (11 Sam. xiii, 16, 24; 1 Chron. xii, 22-25). This hill was the identical one on which Abraham offered up Isaac and received him back from the dead in a figure, and on this hill Solomon builded the temple which David desired to build, but was not permitted to, but God gave him the plans of it and allowed him to prepare abundantly for it. See carefully these passages, 1
Chron. xviii, 12, 19; 1 Chron. iii, 1.
In 1 Kings 1, 14, we have some of his last words to Solomon, but much more fully in 1 Chron. xxviii and xiii, with his wonderful prayer in xiii, 10-16, which we found great pleasure in memorizing in the Bible classes not long ago. Oh, for a lesson on some of these portions touching with the riches of His grace and glory instead of the less restful portions such as the lesson of today!

But let us notice before looking at this lesson that David and the threshing floor of Ornan of Ornan, the same hill, are strongly suggestive of the great atonement of the Lord Jesus, so that the foundation of the temple was really the atonement. So also in the inheritance of Moses every board staked on the altar which was paid as a ransom for their souls. The only foundation for an individual or for the church is the finished work of the Lord Jesus. In our lesson today David is said to be old, though he was only seventy (11 Sam. v, 4; 1 Kings 1, 14).
He is said to have died in a good old age, full of days, riches and honor (1 Chron. xiii, 28). Trouble seems to have followed him all the way, and now, at the very end, Adonijah, his fourth son, whom he had never displeased by even saying "Why hast thou done so?" (11 Sam. 11, 25; 1 Kings 1, 6), seeks the throne and has himself proclaimed king. This stirred Nathan the prophet, and he went to Bathsheba, the mother of Solomon, and pointed with the result that Solomon was caused to ride upon King David's mule and was anointed king instead of his father. This caused great rejoicing, so that the earth rent with sound thereof and David himself said, "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, who hath given one to sit on my throne this day.
mine eyes have seen seeing it" (Verses 33, 40, 45). "Then Solomon sat on the throne of the Lord his father instead of David, his father, and prospered, and all Israel obeyed him" (1 Chron. xiii, 23).

No throne on earth was ever called the throne of the Lord except the throne at Jerusalem, and we are just approaching the time when Jerusalem shall again be the throne of the Lord and all nations shall be gathered unto it, to the name of the Lord, to Jerusalem (Jer. 17, 17). The Lord had told David before Solomon was born that he should be his successor and sit on his throne (1 Chron. xiii, 7-9) and so it came to pass, for in some way or other every purpose of the Lord shall be performed (Jer. 1, 29). I have in mind always in this connection Isxxiii, 10, 11; Is. xlv, 24, and that great rest in such assurances. If the affections of all true believers were as fully set upon the building of the church and the bringing back of the king to set up His kingdom and we were as ready to prepare with all our might, as was David, far the temple
(1 Chron. xiii, 2, 3), how the mission treasures would overflow with funds to help give the gospel to every creature, and what a great company would be heard saying, "Here am I; send me!" (Isa. vi, 8). We need to remember that God tries the heart and has pleasure in uprightness and that in His hand are power and might, and that all things come of Him (1 Chron. xiii, 12, 14, 17).

In the last words of David in 11 Sam.
xiii, 1-5, he was filled with thoughts of all that God had done for him in taking him from his flock to be king over Israel, and how all that he had written had been given to him by the Holy Spirit. He was conscious of his failures, but rejoiced in the faithfulness of God, and in the everlasting covenant ordered in all things and sure. He ever looked onward to the Christ who would sit upon His throne and rule righteously and to the morning when He would come for Israel's redemption.

REV. STRICKLAND TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Rev. Fred Guy Strickland, of Dayton, Ohio, who has been holding a very successful series of open air meetings in fronton, will begin a similar work in Portsmouth Sunday at 8 p. m., at Market Square near the postoffice.

Rev. Strickland is well known in this city as a spokesman of the Socialist party.

He calls his present work a
"union evangelism" because he seeks to unite all movements that make for the freedom of the workers and the establishment of peace and justice.

The special topic for Sunday at 8 p. m., will be "The Social Hope of Jesus." Rev. Strickland always brings an earnest but happy message.

Rev. Oakley To Talk
On The Book Of Acts

Now that Fourth of July vacations have come to an end and the Chautauqua tent pulled down and folded away, those members of the First Christian church and Bible school who have been absenting themselves from the house of worship on the first day of the week, should bestir themselves and jump back into harness with the laudable ambition of making up for lost time.

Even with the many counter attractions, the summer slump has not hit the organization with the usual force. The attendance has held up remarkably, and under the able leadership of Rev. Oakley and Superintendent Howland the church and Bible school have kept abreast with the times. The one real steep hill to climb, i. e., Fourth of July, has been negotiated safely and from now on it is down grade all the way. Nothing short of the 700 mark at Bible school will suffice—you be one of that number.

If you are not able to be present at the Bible study hour then come for morning worship. Rev.
Oakley announces that he has decided to deliver four sermons on the book of Acts. His sermon Sunday morning will be on the subject, "A Book of Sermons," while on Sunday evening he will talk on the subject, "A Book of Conversions." On Sunday morning, July 18, his subject will be "A Book on Evangelism," while on that night his subject will be
"A Book of Heroic Deeds." All of these sermons will be based on the book of Acts, and they promise to be highly instructive as well as convincing. The members should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear each and every one of these sermons.

SYNOPSIS.

Professor Stilliter, psychologist, Gordon Barclay, seances and Surveant, millonaires, plan to search to the world of efficiency through a young and beautiful woman who shall believe that she is a heaven-sent messenger. They kidnap the little Amesbury girl, orphaned daughter of a seances marriage, and convert her into a seances. In care of a woman, she is molded to their plan as she grows into fifteen years. Tommy Barclay, seances radical tendencies which threaten the elder man's plans, leaves his prospective seances, and on a hunting trip discovers Celestia, who thinks she has just come from heaven to save the world. The adventures of Tommy and Celestia in the woods begin.

FOURTH INSTALLMENT

CHAPTER X.

But Tommy stopped short with a kind of jerk, as a tethered animal stops when it comes to the end of its rope; for he saw clearly, and all in a moment, that it was not a woman who invited him to share the shelter of the hut, but a little child. He stopped short then and smiled at a boy's smile.

"Not room enough for two in there," he said. "But if you get frightened or want anything, just call. I'll hear. And—good night."

It seemed darker when she had closed the door of the hut and no longer gleamed in the fire light. Professor Stilliter lowered his rifle with a suppressed sigh of relief and sank down among the bushes. And when Tommy, healthily tired, had fallen into a sound sleep he withdrew to a distance with his followers, and passed a night of supreme discomfort upon the hard ground. Celestia was safe in Tommy's care, and there was no use separating them before morning.

Bright and early Celestia waked and stepped from the hut into the cold, still Adirondack dawn. Tommy, his feet to the fire that had almost died, still slept. She knelt by him and studied his face at leisure. Presently she touched his hand cautiously with the tip of her finger and found that it was cold. Then, happy as a child, to be of service, she put wood on the fire and blew the embers into flame. Still Tommy did not wake, and she knelt by him once more and, with a laugh, bowed her lovely head and kissed him. Tommy was dreaming of her. She had promised to marry him as soon as he had killed the horrible dragon that lived under the hill. Tommy, after a desperate battle, in which he was armed with only a cane-opener, had just succeeded in opening the dragon's jugular vein, and was just rushing out from under the hill to claim his reward from the waiting Celestia, when she really kissed him, and he waked, and knew that he had been kissed.

His very first words were of reproach. "Celestia, dear," he said, "you mustn't do that."

"Mustn't kiss you?"

"Of course not."

Her great eyes assumed an injured look.

"In heaven," she said, "an angel always wakes me with a kiss."

"Tommy was wide awake now."

"What kind of an angel?" he inquired with a kind of cold suspicion in his voice.

"Oh," she said carefully, "anyone that happens to pass by, and thought that I had slept long enough. But then Celestia liked to be kissed. Don't humans?"

"Yes," said Tommy, "sometimes. I liked it. Only among us it's a sacred sort of thing, and grown-up humans reserve their kisses for celestial moods, or for children, who are always rather heavenly." As he spoke, he began to prepare breakfast, and Celestia smiled upon him, but not as she was very much interested in what he had said, or indeed understood it. Suddenly she said:

"I want to cook."

"You do, do you? Do you know how?"

"I've watched you."

"Tommy rose with a laugh. "Then you shall," he said, "and I'll have a swim to wake me up."

"A swim?"

"You do it in the water," said Tommy gravely, and he made swimming motions with his arms.

"Oh, but I'd rather swim, too, than cook," said Celestia, and she prepared to follow him. But Tommy shook his head.

"Somebody has to cook," he said, "and I was the first to think about swimming and so it would be selfish of you."

"You were nicer to me yesterday," said Celestia, and she turned with a little cry of astonishment to the kettle, which had just boiled over.

Tommy hurried away chuckling, and just before he came to the Narrow Island Beach he stripped and hung his clothes on a tree limb, then he ran into the water until it was waist deep, and then dove.

Celestia, busy with the cooking, was not troubling her mind about celestial affairs.

The reason that Tommy could not understand Celestia was simple. She could not explain herself. She believed beyond question that she had always lived in heaven until the day and once more saw. Then he felt in his pocket to see if this time he had a spare pair with him. He had.

"Nobody," he thought, "will ever catch me with but one pair again."

A man of iron nerves and of great imagination under perfect control, Professor Stilliter had but one weakness—his eyes. Otherwise he was as strong as a bull; but let him once begin to think about his eyes and he became the prey of fearful and wild fancies.

Most men die but once. Professor Stilliter had died a thousand deaths and all of them violent and horrible, and due to a sudden loss of sight. During the preceding night, lying miserably on the hard, rocky ground, he had had a most unpleasant nightmare about himself.

He was alone in the midst of a vast, trackless forest. He was there on scientific business—to record the song of a certain very rare bird. But the bird wouldn't sing. It would only laugh.

Now he had stopped to rest; so had the laughing bird. In the forest was the silence of death. Suddenly the bird began to laugh again, and this time the laughter came nearer and nearer. And presently there emerged from the forest into the little open glade in which he stood two children, who held hands and laughed. They were Tommy Steele and the little Amesbury girl. They walked straight toward him as if they didn't see him. But they must have, for suddenly they stopped, and Tommy said:

"So you are the man that tried to take her away from me and lock her up in heaven, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am, and what's more, I'll get her this time."

And he lunged at the little Amesbury girl, and Tommy simply knocked her glasses off.

He stood still for quite a long time. He could hear the children, still laughing as they wandered off into the forest. The laughter grew fainter and fainter.

Then he knelt and began to hunt for his glasses. He hunted until the knees of his trousers were worn through and the small of his back ached like an ulcerated tooth. He hunted slowly and methodically until he felt that he must have covered every square inch of the open glade.

Then he began to scream for help. After an hour his screams grew hoarse and faint and presently his vocal cords relaxed and he could no longer make a sound.

So it was to be death, was it? Death in the damned forest, when he was still in the prime of life! Death because a little boy loved a little girl and always stood up for her! Well, it had to be, and he tried to resign himself to it and be calm.

He woke so frightened that he was half dead in reality. And it took him some time to pull himself together.

Well, the party landed and took up the long trail to Four Corners.

About leaving Tommy without clothes, Stilliter had no compunctions. The young man might suffer. He would undoubtedly catch a frightful cold, but he wouldn't actually die. "It'll swim across," Stilliter thought, "and walk naked until he reaches the outskirts of Four Corners. Then he'll hide in a bush and call pitifully for help. I wish I could be there to see. The scene should have in it the true essence of comedy."

Stilliter had no beliefs that could not be refuted in a scientific way, but he could not altogether explain away the miraculous coincidence of Tommy being the very first person that Celestia should meet.

"Why pick out to meet her when she comes back from all the millions who might be the first to meet her, the one person who was unhappy?"

"She works like a charm," he thought, "and she's my work-mate."

And in a way she was; but the scientist took too much credit. Left to herself Celestia must have been a force for good.

Toward the end of the long tramp there had to be frequent rests, for Celestia was getting very tired, and when at last they reached Four Corners it was only just in time to catch the New York express.

During the few minutes there were to spare, however, Celestia gathered all the crowd there was to gather, and made the deepest and most lasting impression that had ever been made upon that woodland community.

Something of interest happens in the midst of a remote wilderness, and within a few hours the incident "written up" with details appears in a newspaper. That this is possible is news-papers to good management and one-tenth to good luck.

"Johnny" Cumberland of the New York Beacon had just stepped off the Montreal express at Four Corners for a few days' rest and holiday in the woods. He had earned this by tracking down, through a period of six weeks, and causing the arrest of a certain gentleman who had been using the United States mail to separate unsophisticated people from their money.

"I want to go somewhere for a few days," said Johnny, to the city editor, "where there is no news."

The city editor did not make the usual central answer about Brooklyn or the state department. He said simply: "Try Four Corners. Waycross county, New York," and dismissed Johnny with a quiet, pleasant nod.

Johnny, however, had no sooner stepped off the train at the newsless place than he ran head first into news. And that afternoon there appeared a column of the Beacon devoted to Celestia and headlined like this:

"THE GODDESS" is not an ordinary serial picture—it is not a conglomeration of stunts thrown together without rhyme or reason—it is a continued photoplay in CHAPTERS. "THE GODDESS" is an idyllic rhapsody by one of the greatest living writers and the pictures are from the greatest producing company in the world. "THE GODDESS" contains all the elements that make a good story and picture, love—suspense—pathos—adventure—hate—money—greed—each chapter increases in beauty and interest—follow the army who are going to

"You Leave Her Alone!" Shouted Tommy.

clear rather loud voice, so that the two guides turned to look at her, and the younger of them having looked, sheepishly pulled off his hat, and during the rest of the march held it in his hand. He didn't quite believe that she came from heaven. He didn't quite believe that she didn't. He didn't quite believe that she didn't. He didn't quite believe that she didn't.

CHAPTER XI.

Think of the maddest you have ever been, multiply that by ten, and you will have some idea of Tommy's state of mind when he found that his clothes were gone. It was half an hour before he was able to think.

And by that time there was no longer any sight or sound of Celestia.

Still furiously angry, but calmer, he hurried to the hut and used up the precious hour to make a suit of clothes out of an old suit, which he found, in making holes for his arms and legs to go through and in cutting a strip of hide for the belt, but as a suit the affair was not a success. Finally he determined to travel naked, carrying the buffalo suit over his arm to be doctored hastily in case he met anyone.

So he swam to the mainland, keeping the buffalo hide out of water as much as he could, and on feet which were soon bruised and bloodied, headed straight for Four Corners. He chose this course not because he expected to find Celestia there, but because he was well known there, and could get clothes and if necessary a couple of men who would help find out what had become of her.

Badly bitten by mosquitoes, gnats, and deerflies, he had by five o'clock arrived within half a mile of Four Corners, when a sound of footsteps caused him to dart behind a viburnum bush and dress hastily in his buffalo robe suit. That dress he resembled a cross between the wild man of Borneo and a Christmas stocking, did not trouble him. He was covered and proprieties were preserved. That was all that mattered. Stepping back into the trail and renewing his way he came face to face with John Cumberland.

Johnny gave one look at Tommy and shuddered. Every brave man has his weakness; an inborn fear of maniacs was Johnny's. He would have given his reputation to be elsewhere, but he had plenty of real nerve, and though he felt that the situation might prove desperate, he resolved to face it like a man. He had often heard that the way to get along with maniacs is by humoring them; so he drew a long breath, assumed a ghastly smile. "It is I—must be Robinson Crusoe!"

"What's that?" cried Tommy, sharply. For he was not in a pleasant humor.

"That's all right," said Johnny, backing slowly away. "I thought you thought you were Robinson Crusoe; but if you think you are someone else I think so too. I think whatever you do."

"I am Tommy Barclay," said Tommy with a certain fierceness.

"Of course you are," exclaimed the reporter, "that's what I meant to say in the first place."

"If you think I'm mad—" Tommy began, but Cumberland interrupted with a hasty "No sirree, I don't. Just as sane as I am. Wouldn't wonder if sinner. Maybe two or three times as sane."

Tommy couldn't help laughing.

"Look here," said Tommy, "don't be an ass if you can possibly help it. My clothes were stolen while I was in swimming. I threw this fashionable suit together out of respect for Anthony Comstock, and I'm looking for a young lady named Celestia."

"The girl from heaven?"

"That's what she says; but how do you know?"

"Me? I interviewed her just before she boarded the New York express. Professor Stilliter, the famous psychologist found her in the woods, and between you and me she's sane as I am."

"Who are you?" Tommy asked abruptly.

"John Cumberland. New York Beacon."

"Then you probably know who I am."

"If you're really Mr. Thomas Barclay, I do. Are you?"

Tommy merely nodded and the reporter knew he was speaking the truth.

"If you're any statement to make, Mr. Barclay."

Tommy shook his head.

"They took her to New York?"

"To Bellevue, Stilliter couldn't make up his mind whether she was highbrow or not."

"I'm afraid she is," said Tommy. "Poor kid. Look here, old man, I'd be a life long friend to anybody who'd bring me a decent suit of clothes in time to catch the next train. I know every body in Four Corners, but some how I can't see myself facing them in this."

this. They have nothing to do but split on a red hot stove and laugh."

"I've got extra clothes," said Cumberland. "If you wait here, I'll go and come back with the necessary. Aren't you dying for a smoke?"

"I am," said Tommy; "you're a brick."

He accepted three of the reporter's cigarettes and a number of matches.

CHAPTER XII.

It had leaked out that the angel from heaven, recently found in the Adirondacks, would reach New York on a certain train, and the entrances to the Grand Central station were thronged with idlers on the lookout for a sensation. I don't know what they expected to see—some sort of a Carrie Nation perhaps, at whom they would jeer—certainly not Celestia. Very few persons in the crowd really saw her—but from these as she passed swiftly with Professor Stilliter to a waiting taxicab arose no jeers and insults, but only a low, humming murmur of wonder and admiration.

She walked like someone in a trance, looking neither to the right nor to the left, but her lovely face had such an expression of serenity and peace and she was so touchingly young that the worst scoffers felt their hearts soften and go out to her.

Her white dress, falling in unbroken lines from her shoulders, the jeweled hand low across her forehead, would, at the time and place, make almost any other wearer ridiculous. But Celestia's face was so commandingly good and beautiful that only women and reporters noticed her clothes at all. And only those of them who were in the foremost fringe of the crowd saw that, except for thin sandals, her small, high-arched feet were bare.

Another crowd not so large saw her leave the taxicab and enter Bellevue hospital. From these there went up a short, sharp murmur of pity. "These things, she's mad, poor thing!" "Of course," or else they are going to make out that she is, and that's worse; and did anybody ever see such hair and eyes, and such a carriage of the head, or any dress so white, or anyone that moved with so much grace?"

Professor Stilliter, who was well known to the Bellevue authorities, though he remained a spectator of all the tests to which her mental powers were subjected, refused to give his own conclusions as to her sanity.

"I've been with her a good many hours on end," he said, "and, of course, I've formed an opinion, but I refuse to interfere in any way with your experiments and deductions."

At first they all thought that she was mad. They couldn't help it. She told them that she came from heaven, and had come to save the world. And she told them these things with such simplicity and dignity that it was obvious to the most cynical that she at least believed what she said. "It was like a mother," said one of the young doctors afterward, "telling her children Bible stories."

Crane questioning could neither shake her narrative in detail or degree, and as her mind continued to respond quickly and patiently to one test after another they became more and more puzzled. Instead of being able to prove that she was defective, it began to dawn on them after hours of experiment and observation that she was the opposite, not only mentally but physically.

At last Professor Stilliter took the head doctor aside.

"You haven't even a pretext for detaining her, have you?" he asked.

"Not one," said the doctor. "She's as sane as you or I, according to all the tests, and yet she can't be. What's to become of her?"

"Why, as long as I discovered her," said Professor Stilliter, "I feel that I must become of her."

The Movies

The Lyric Has A Wonderful Program For Next Week—A Feature Every Day.

ANITA STEWART—Nymph!

"The Goddess," that wonderful Vitaphone picture, will be the principal attraction on Monday, along with two other good single reel subjects. Anita Stewart and Earle Williams in "The Goddess" are making millions of friends. The picture grows more and more interesting with each succeeding chapter. If you haven't joined the army of "Goddess" patrons you had better come on Monday for it is surely a great picture.

Tuesday's big bill is a three reel Edison, "The Tragedies of the Crystal Globe" with Mabel Trunnelle and a Vitaphone comedy drama and a new Charlie Chaplin comedy. Wednesday brings a dramatic sensation "The Seventh Commandment" in three parts; a "Slippery Slim" comedy and another Charlie Chaplin picture. On Thursday comes the greatest picture of the year, "Hearts in Exile," a five reel masterpiece featuring the popular Clara Kimball Young. Friday's program is a big double bill, two Paramount pictures of three parts each, "Bootsie and Snoots" and "The Man on the Case." On Saturday next Richard Travers and Edna Mayo in a three act romance, "The Little Deceiver," and a Charlie Chaplin two-reeler. Good shows every day, with well balanced programs to please everybody.

Big Program All Next Week At The Columbia
Without any doubt, the program at the Columbia for next week is not only the largest, but the best ever offered at a picture theatre in Portsmouth. Five and six reels each day with some real feature picture on every day's program.

For Monday the feature is "Her Father's Rifle," a three reel picture taken in connection with the famous Selig wild animals, featuring such artists as Bessie Lyton and Stella Razetta. With this feature you will see the famous Paramount travel pictures of the West Indies and South America and a "roaring comedy" entitled "A Safe Investment" with Billy Reeves, the famous music hall artist from England.

Tuesday is Paramount Day with the ever popular Elsie Janis in a five reel story written by herself entitled "Betty In Search of a Thrill." Don't overlook Miss Janis on Tuesday as the regular price of admission of 10 cents. "The Shadows of a Great City" on Wednesday is a five reel Metro production featuring such stars as Thomas Jefferson and Adolphe Menjou. This is said to be one of the big picture successes of the year.

Look at the Thursday program. First we have "The Kentucky Carlsbad Spring's Famous Mineral Water, Nature's Great Remedy."

This famous water is pumped from the bottom of the earth. It is a dark green color, entirely free from organic matter, with wonderful medicinal properties. It is a cure for cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, diabetes, stomach, kidney, liver and bladder troubles. It has met their waterworks by drinking this water, just as it is drawn from the earth. You can get the same benefit by drinking it at your home, if it is not convenient for you to come to the theatre, as you can get it from your doctor. If he hasn't it, have him to order for you, or you can order it direct from the Springs. In fact, it is sold with a guarantee. If you don't get the desired results after you have used it from ten days to two weeks, the one that sold it to you will return you all the money you have paid for it. For all the above mentioned diseases, excepting rheumatism, rheumatic fever, must come to the Springs to take the water in the same way that it is taken from the springs. Our Springs is thirty-five miles from Cincinnati, Ohio, on the C. & O. railroad.

surrounding," a three reel feature picture, containing some of the most remarkable pictures of the North Atlantic fleet in the United States navy. Beautiful Orni Hawley and Earl Metcalf are the principals in this picture. Then a real comedy entitled "Her Choice" with Mae Hotely in her funniest mood. To this already large program has been added Charley Chaplin in "The New Janitor," making SOME program for Thursday.

Every picture fan knows that the Broadway Star features are in a class by themselves in high class pictures. Don't overlook "The Easterbrook Case," the three reel Broadway Star feature as the headliner for Friday with a most excellent two reel comedy, "From Champion To Trump," and another Charlie Chaplin picture entitled "The Kid's Auto Race."

Saturday's program is certainly a rare bargain. Just listen: "The Hand of God," a two reel drama with Bobby Connelly, that swell "kid" with the Vitaphone company. "The Fatal Shot," and "The Stolen Case," two of the best single reel comedies and just for good measure another Chaplin picture, "Some Nerve."

If you are looking for picture show bargains you can't miss bargain day any day next week at the Columbia. Always a good show at the Columbia.

WILSON CUTS VACATION TO DISCUSS GERMAN NOTE WITH CABINET; MAY SEVER RELATIONS

CHICAGO STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

Chicago, July 10.—The strike of 12,000 carpenters, which for two months practically has paralyzed the building industry in Chicago, is over.

Settlement on all points at issue was reached early today after committees representing the carpenters, building construction association and building material interests had been locked in conference since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The carpenters were ordered to work at once.

The agreement reached provides that the men shall receive 70 cents an hour, and that they accept what is called "uniform agreement," which will prevent strikes and lockouts. The agreement is for three years, dating from May 31. It provides for a closed shop and also stipulates that there shall be no restriction regarding the source of building material—whether it is manufactured here or elsewhere.

The settlement was regarded by both sides as a compromise. The carpenters had demanded a sliding wage scale of 70 cents for the first year, 72 1/2 cents for the second and 75 cents for the third. The men, previous to the strike, had been paid 65 cents an hour.

The same plan employed by Mayor William Hale Thompson to settle the recent street car strike when he locked the opposing factions in his chamber and told them they'd stay there until the strike was settled—was successful in ending the carpenters' strike.

Thomas Carey, president of a brick manufacturing company, locked the conference in, after the men had argued for hours without making any headway. He personally guarded the door until a settlement was reached.

SECRETARY DANIELS CALLS IN NAVAL EXPERTS TO HELP HIM MAKE NAVY EFFICIENT

Secretary Daniels (seated) and his "advisory council." Left to right: Dr. Richard C. Holcomb; Admiral Joseph Strauss; Admiral W. S. Benson, II. R. Stanford, David W. Tyler, D.W. Wurtzbaugh, Admiral Victor Blue, Maj. Gen. George Barnett, Admiral R. S. Griffin and Captain Kilday McLean.

By creating his new "advisory council" and abolishing the system of naval aides established by former Secretary Meyer, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels has effected what he considers a reformation in his department and which he says gives more universal recognition to the navy's bureau chiefs as the professional work under their direction. The council meets every Thursday in the secretary's office.

OFFICIALS BELIEVE ONLY COURSE IS TO ASSERT U. S. RIGHTS

Washington, July 10.—Although the official text of Germany's note on submarine warfare had not reached here early today, the press copy which was read by officials was accepted as verification of the earlier impressions that Germany had refused to give the United States the assurances asked for in the American note of June 9.

Everywhere in official quarters the unsatisfactory character of the reply was discussed along with the probable action that the United States would be compelled to take as a result of Germany's unwillingness to concede to Americans the right to travel on the high seas on peaceful merchantmen of any nationality.

President Wilson will start from Cornish, N. H., for Washington in a day or two to consider with his cabinet the grave situation impending. Comment in official quarters today was sparing as to the course that would be pursued, the general feeling being that nothing should be said until the president had returned.

On the other hand those in official quarters familiar with the diplomatic precedents and the progressive development of the American attitude believed, that having stated its position and having asked for assurances which now have been refused, the only course left open for the United States seemed to be an announcement that it intended to assert its rights as established under the rules of international law. This would mean in effect that the United States would await a violation by Germany before taking action to compel respect for the rights asserted. There was a revival of talk concerning the severance of diplomatic relations, it being recalled in official circles that in the now famous cabinet meeting of May 17, when the sinking of the Lusitania was first considered there was informal understanding that if the negotiations of the United States to secure reparation from Germany for the destruction of American lives in that tragedy failed, the American government might justify in discontinuing diplomatic intercourse with Germany.

Germany's complete evasion of the liability for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania has revived the subject most acutely according to well informed persons. For several days there has been an undertone of disappointment and apprehension over what Ambassador Gerard informed the state department the German note would contain. President Wilson has been giving quiet consideration to the character of the reply and some of his advisers already have been making suggestions with reference to the course that should be pursued.

Analyzing the German answer today officials found little on which it appeared negotiations could be further prolonged. The United States has devoted its attention to the principle that Americans should be able to travel on the high seas on unarmed and unresisting belligerent merchant ships of any nationality in accordance with previously recognized principles of international law. Assurances had been asked that before any destruction would be attempted, the visit and search of peaceful vessels and the transfer of passengers and crew to a place of safety would be accomplished. It was recognized that Germany in its latest note had ignored this vital question and had shifted now emphasizing the conditions under which it would promise complete immunity from danger to Americans traveling even on American ships, a situation which since Germany's circular note with reference to neutral vessels received on May 11 had not been called into question.

The expression by Germany of a confident hope that the United States "will assume to guarantee that these vessels have no contraband on board, details of arms for the unhampered passages of these to be agreed upon by both sides" left the impression in the minds of many officials that Germany was prepared to destroy the American passenger ships if they were found to be carrying contraband.

BANDITS ROB FAST TRAIN IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala., July 10.—Posses of railroad men and detectives were early today scouring around Greenville, Alabama, 60 miles south of here, in search of four bandits, who near that place, shortly before 2 o'clock this morning, held up and robbed Louisville and Nashville fast train No. 37, bound from New York for New Orleans. No word of success of the chase has been received here at an early hour.

The bandits, after forcing the engine crew to abandon their engine, cut loose the mail, baggage and express cars, ran them a short distance down the track, turned a full head of steam on the engine and started it southward with no one in the cab and then looted the cars. The value of the loot obtained has not been ascertained. The passengers were not molested.

Conductor Phil McRea, of Montgomery, at first was reported to have been killed by the bandits. Later it was stated he was found dead sitting on the steps of the observation car of his train and no wound could be found on his body. It was said the bandits fired one shot, but that it went wild.

The bandits boarded the train at Greenville, according to reports from passengers. Two of the men boarded the rear end of the baggage car and the others the tender of the engine. When the train pulled out of Greenville the men climbed over the tender into the engine, and forced the engine to stop. The crew was ordered out of the cab and the bandits cut loose the three front cars. After running the cars a short distance down the track the bandits cut loose the engine and started it on its wild run. The engine came to a halt near Garland, Alabama, from lack of steam, after running about forty miles.

Chief Mail Clerk Weathers, who remained in his car, was held up at the point of a pistol and bound and gagged.

First news of the robbery came to railroad officials here. A special train with railroad officials and officers started for the scene at once.

May Drop Charges Against Hastings

Columbus, O., July 10.—Statement made by members of the special committee which investigated charges against Superintendent R. Hastings, of the Lancaster Industrial School, before their meeting here today, indicated that they would exonerate Superintendent Hastings of most, or possibly all charges. A few minor recommendations concerning the practical management of the school may be made, it was said. Unless the committee reports finding conditions serious at school which should be changed, the board of administration will probably make no separate inquiry, it was said.

The investigators are R. C. Burton, of Zanesville, John White, of Logan, C. W. Faulkner, of Kenton, and Budget Commissioner E. M. Fallington.

This committee was appointed after charges against Superintendent Hastings had been filed with the governor by Joseph Geer, a discharged employee of the school. He complained that Superintendent Hastings granted favors to employees appointed by him, not according to old employees; permitted many gallons of tomatoes to spoil because they were not properly canned; cut down valuable timber on the school farm, and employed a young girl as matron of a cottage. The committee spent several days at the school hearing testimony of employees and officers.

None of the bombs exploded, and all were hidden in bags of sugar, the Kirkoswald's officers said. The sugar was taken aboard, they said, at the Fabre pier in Brooklyn. HUSBAND DEAD, LOVER WOULDN'T MARRY HER, DESPONDENT WOMAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL SELF

Mrs. Anna Rohrbach, aged about 30 years, a domestic at the George W. Gillen home, corner of Second and Madison streets, took a dose of opium poisoning Friday evening, supposedly with suicidal intent.

The woman was still writhing in agony Saturday morning and refusing to answer questions put to her, but was believed to be out of danger.

Despondency over the tragic end of her husband, Randolph Rohrbach, who is said to have shot himself to death at Wheeling, W. Va., three weeks ago, and the unwillingness of her lover, Joe Hoskins, to marry her, were thought to have prompted her rash act.

Mrs. Rohrbach had complained of a headache Friday morning. During the afternoon she went to bed. Later Mrs. Gillen went to the room to arouse her, as supper is always prepared early for her son, Harry D. Gillen, night watchman at the Reliable Engine Company's plant, but finding that she was still asleep, advised her to remain quiet and she would cook supper in her stead.

Woman's Grooms Heard The
Later the woman was heard groaning and becoming alarmed, Mrs. Gillen called in some neighbors. Although these included some who were on the very best of terms with her, Mrs. Rohrbach closed her eyes and sealed her lips and ignored all questions put to her. Hoskins was sent for, but she would not look up at him or converse with him. It was then decided to summon a physician. City Physician Dr. Charles Wendelken responded to the call. The woman refused to tell him what she had taken, but he found evidence of a slow poisoning and treated her accordingly. She continued restless throughout the night.

From what could be learned in and about the Gillen home, Mrs. Rohrbach had been brooding noticeably over since receiving a letter from a married daughter at Wheeling telling of her husband killing himself. She asked Hoskins to marry her, but he wanted to put off the wedding to some distant date. This preyed upon her mind. She had tried to secure a divorce last fall, but failed because of Hoskins. He it was said, was then eager to marry her. They had been arrested at New Boston eight years ago for alleged living in adultery and had kept company ever since. It was while working out her fine under the late Sheriff John Gillen that the latter's aged parents became acquainted with her and she has been their servant for the past three years.

Conduct Has Been Good
Her conduct within the Gillen home itself has always been above reproach and she was regarded as a good worker. For a time she was employed at the White Bear hotel, now the West End hotel. She has grand-children living at Wheeling. She frequently spoke of her past domestic troubles, claiming that she left her home in Wheeling because her husband was a hard drinker.

Hoskins is a former mill man, but in recent years has been employed at the Portsmouth Brewing & Ice Company's plant. He admitted to a Times man Saturday that the woman had asked him to marry her after hearing of her husband's death but said he was not ready, as he wanted first to be fully satisfied that Rohrbach is dead.

BRIDGE DANGER IS NOW PASSED

The Scioto river was still running out rather lively Saturday morning, but all danger to the temporary bridge is considered over. It was fortunate that the Ohio was at a high stage, this having the effect of holding back the run-out. The Scioto is backed up as far as the N. & W. bridge at Vera. Rains up the valley were unusually heavy.

FLAG AT HALF MAST

The towboat Florence Marmet had her flag at half-mast when she passed up stream Friday out of respect to the memory of those of

WANT ORDER PLACED FOR STRUCTURAL IRON

The city officials have suggested that L. E. Sturm, the successful bidder on the Lawson Run viaduct job, place his order immediately for structural iron needed in completing the structure, because others are experiencing great delays in securing such material from mills over the country. The last of the work on the viaduct is concrete casing of steel, which if to be the best, should be poured before freezing temperature sets in.

Rev. Oakley To Talk On The Book Of Acts

Now that Fourth of July vacations have come to an end and the Chautauqua tent pulled down and folded away, those members of the First Christian church and Bible school who have been absenting themselves from the house of worship on the first day of the week, should bestir themselves and jump back into harness with the laudable ambition of making up for lost time.

Even with the many counter attractions, the summer slump has not hit the organization with the usual force. The attendance has held up remarkably, and, under the able leadership of Rev. Oakley and Superintendent Howland the church and Bible school have kept pace with the times. The one real step hill to climb, i. e., Fourth of July, has been negotiated safely and from now on it is down grade all the way. Nothing short of the 700 mark at Bible school will suffice—you be one of that number.

If you are not able to be present at the Bible study hour then come for morning worship. Rev. Oakley announces that he has decided to deliver four sermons on the book of Acts. His sermon Sunday morning will be on the subject, "A Book of Sermons," and while on Sunday evening he will talk on the subject, "A Book of

Free Candy For the Kids At Arcana Theatre Today

Manager J. F. Potts of the Arcana theatre who pulls off a new stunt every now and then, has hit upon a scheme that should result in children flocking to his theatre this afternoon. In the first place he has looked an attraction, "The Jungle Queen," a wild animal feature, that will appeal to the young as well as the old. In addition to this great feature of three reels, Manager Potts will give to every child attending this afternoon's show a bag of pure sweet candy, worth more than the admission price of five cents. He has secured a whole barrel of candy—fresh and pure, and he hopes to give away every ounce to the kids. The picture for this afternoon and night is a thrilling one, full of excitement from first to last and one which was taken in the wild jungles of Africa. The wild animals are featured in all conceivable places, and the dangers undergone in making the picture are many and exciting. There is a pretty love story running through the three reels, and all in all the attraction promises to be one of the best ever shown at the Arcana. The price of admission is five cents to all.

Woman Supposed To Be Drowned Has Sister Here; Mother Is At Harrisonville

Miss Rebecca Smith, aged 27 years, the woman on the towboat Convey when she capsized and sank just below the Southern bridge in Cincinnati, during Wednesday night's big storm, there, proves to be a sister of Mrs. William Suter, wife of an N. & W. conductor of No. 1724 Seventeenth street.

Mrs. Suter is prostrated from shock and grief. Her husband and her brother, Henderson Smith of Tick Ridge, left for Cincinnati early Saturday morning to begin a search for the body as it is now regarded as certain Miss Smith was drowned.

Miss Smith was employed in a Cincinnati shoe factory but during slack times would take employment as chambermaid on the Convey, having been well acquainted with the commander, Capt. Williams and his family. He was recently transferred to another boat. She was for years employed at the Seely shoe factory in this city, leaving here at the time of the first strike six years ago. She was preparing to return home, writing a letter to her sister, Mrs. Suter, a week ago, telling of her coming.

The missing woman's widowed mother, Mrs. W. T. Smith, lives at Harrisonville. Her father was overcome by gas while cleaning a well on his home place and died July 17, 1914.

Mrs. Suter had been out calling Friday and when she returned home in the afternoon a friend called up and apprised her of her sister's fate, having read of it in the Times Noon Extra.

Scioto Is Rising

Ironton is Visited By Big Rainstorm

The Ironton Irontonian of Saturday morning said: "Probably the heaviest rain of the year occurred early this morning, beginning at about 9:30 o'clock and continuing throughout the early morning. The rain fell in torrents and within the space of a very few minutes the streets were flooded and the sewers were unable to carry off the surface water with sufficient rapidity to prevent the water from forming on each street a small river."

RAILROADS SET GOOD EXAMPLE

Some idea as to what extent railways will spend money towards increasing their motive power may be gleaned from the fact that the N. & W. expended over $2,000,000 bettering its grades between Portsmouth and Columbus and it resulted in increasing its tonnage 8 per cent.

At a meeting where this was brought out Friday all agreed that the state and counties should follow the example of railways by eliminating curves and straightening roads and paying the same attention to the principle of rise and fall and much would be gained.

Sherrard Johnson Resigns U. S. Office

It was learned Saturday that Attorney Sherrard Johnson had resigned as local United States Commissioner, effective at once.

Mr. Johnson said he had no particular reason for giving up the office, further than that it interfered somewhat with his other duties. He has been filling the place for the past several years, having been appointed about a year following the death of the late Squire Henry Hall, who served as commissioner for many years. He has no idea who his successor will be, or whether one will be named. The appointment is made by Judge Howard C. Hallister, judge of the United States district court at Cincinnati.
